Russ Charge China Wants Nuclear War

Ideological Bomb Blast Triggered By Soviet Letter

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and its former ally, Red China, stood Sunday on the verge of an historic split that threatened to divide communism's world movement.

What appeared to be the Kremlin's final blow to peace talks with the Chinese Communists was a 35,000-word Soviet Communist party statement accusing Peking of striving for nuclear war with the West.

Spread over the pages of the party newspaper Pravda Saturday, the statement sarcastically asserted the Red Chinese believe communism can build "a thousand times higher civilization on the corpses of hundreds of millions of people."

Chinese Expected To Depart

The ideological bomb exploded at the end of a week of talks between Soviet and Chinese Communist party delegations. The Chinese negotiators remained in their embassy, presumably to study the statement and decide whether to keep talking or go home.

Diplomats here expect the Chinese to depart soon.

There was the possibility the two sides would agree to one more final conference session to produce a face-saving communiqué assuring the world that all is well in the Communist camp and that things will straighten themselves out in future talks.

The Chinese said as much in a Peking statement Saturday.

The next move was up to the Chinese. The Soviet statement was the official Soviet Communist party reply to a 30,000-word Chinese attack on Premier Khrushchev's policy of spreading communism by living in peace with the West.

Soviet Breaks Silence

It was in the form of an open letter to the Communist parties of the world.

The document broke a week of Soviet silence on talks with the Chinese, who demand a more militant stand for world communism.

The statement indicated the Soviets have not budged from their stand even though the Chinese challenge seemed bound to weaken the Kremlin's grip on world Communist organizations.

The East European Communist nation of Albania has turned toward Peking in the ideological fight. A similar drift has been detected in Romania.

Iraq's Leaders Denounce Reds

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Iraq celebrated National Day Sunday with speeches denouncing Iraqi Communists and others accused of plotting "to turn Iraq into an atheist Communist state."

Thus leaders gave their answer to Moscow, which has been assailing Iraq's anti-Communist, revolutionary regime and threatening action of one kind or another.

As a 14-gun salvo boomed over Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, top Iraqi leaders on radio and television denounced Communists as enemies of the people.

President Abdel Salam Aref, in the main speech of the day, said his five-month-old government has "crushed forever the regime of local communism in Iraq." This was a reference to the regime of Premier Abdel Kerim Kassem, overthrown last February.

Moscow Greeting

Averell Harriman (left), President Kennedy's special envoy, is greeted by Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, on his arrival in Moscow yesterday for new East-West nuclear test ban talks. "Hot Line" Gear Flown To Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — The U.S. jet plane which brought Averell Harriman to Moscow Sunday carried 6,000 pounds of teletype equipment for the completion of a Moscow-Washington communications "hot line."

Harriman said the link could be in operation in five or six weeks. Soviet officials have set Sept. 1 for the opening date.

"Rocky" Hits At Goldwater Camp Strategy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Sunday that a major strategy of Goldwater-for-president partisans "would not only defeat the Republican party in 1964, but would destroy it altogether."

Rockefeller, expected to bid for the GOP nomination himself next year, issued a strongly worded policy statement in which he challenged the thinking among some Republicans, including some GOP supporters.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the nomination, that the GOP could win next year by writing off the industrial north and centering its appeal on the South, Midwest and some Western and New England states.

Rockefeller, terming that strategy incredible, said voters needed an alternative to "the unprincipled opportunism that has captured the Democratic party." But he asserted, "that alternative will never be found in a party of extremism, a party of sectionalism, a party of racism, a party that disclaims responsibility for most of the population before it even starts its campaign for their support."

"Such an alternative is not a choice but a mockery," he said. The governor called upon the Republican party to reject right-wing extremism, unite as a national party and "save the nation by first saving itself."

Rescued From Mine Boys 'Prayed A Lot, Cried Too'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three teen-age boys who were lost for over 50 hours in an abandoned coal mine ate their first big meal Sunday and rested quietly in a hospital.

Under treatment for exposure and dehydration were Robert Abbott, 15, and Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, both 13.

They were listed in satisfactory condition in St. Clair Memorial Hospital.

Hospital aides said the youngsters weren't talking very much. Burke and Abbott were in the same room.

Missing since Thursday, rescue workers found the boys huddled in a small corridor some 2,000 feet from the entrance of a gaseous and watery mine in suburban Castle Shannon.

Abbott said: "We thought they'd be looking for us, but we didn't know for

Negroes Plan Massive Chain Store Boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro integrationist leader disclosed plans Sunday for a nationwide boycott of chain stores which discriminate racially among customers or in employment.

James L. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said he expects the boycott to be launched shortly after the mass march in Washington scheduled for Aug. 28.

Upwards of 100,000 persons are expected to demonstrate in the capital to protest the high rate of unemployment among Negroes and to press for passage of civil rights legislation.

Farmer said CORE has been negotiating with "some industries with regard to discrimination in their units in the South in the use of facilities, and also with regard to employment of Negroes all over the country."

Negotiations have been concluded successfully with several of them, he said, but a boycott is planned against others — mainly chain department and variety stores.

Farmer, interviewed by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., on a taped radio-television program for New York stations, said he sees very little danger of violence during the demonstration planned here.

But he added that "in the event of a filibuster, I think some drastic action might have to be taken. I would not want to predict the exact form of that drastic action."

Keating told him there has been talk that Congress might take a recess in late August and asked if that would mean a change in plans by the civil rights organizations, sponsoring the march.

"If Congress chooses to take such a ridiculous move as that," Farmer replied, "this would be indeed a new form of filibuster." He said he would anticipate a change in the date for the march if Congress should recess.

Drought Broken By Heavy Rains

By United Press International Heavy rains which broke the drought from the Rockies to the Appalachians, triggering flash floods in some areas, pushed east to the Atlantic Sunday from North Carolina to New York.

The rains, measuring an inch or more in many areas as much as 4 inches or more in some, also broke the long heat wave in the Southern and Central Plains.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were posted through mid-evening for parts of Texas, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska.

"We thought we'd just go to the bottom of the mine and look around. We made a wrong turn. We had gone down just a couple days before but didn't go all the way back in. This time we did just for curiosity and found different passageways. We turned left."

"After we got in there we could not find our way to go back. We seemed to get further from the entrance. That was about an hour after we went in. We got scared and hollered a little bit, but we stuck together."

"We walked around a little bit. After a while we got pretty thirsty. And hungry. We didn't have anything with us, candy or anything."

"We could hear the train and trolleys rumbling, but we couldn't hear any men. We thought they'd be looking for us, but we didn't know for sure. We prayed a lot and cried, too."

Soviets Deny Cuba Blunder Made By "K"

Sending Rockets Blocked Invasion, Peiping Informed

MOSCOW (AP)—Denying Red Chinese charges of blundering in the Caribbean, the Soviet Union says it sent missiles to Cuba last year on a tip that a U.S. invasion of the island was imminent.

The Russians asserted the decision blocked an invasion demanded by U.S. "adventurists who wanted to go the whole hog."

Peking tore into Premier Khrushchev after the world teetered on the edge of war last fall, saying he blundered by shipping the missiles to Cuba and then having to withdraw them under U.S. pressure.

The Soviet position on this touchy issue with Peiping was spelled out in a massive open letter by the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee to the Chinese Communists published in Pravda and distributed Saturday night by Tass news agency.

Chinese "Contradicting Facts"

In sharp language the letter accused the Chinese Communists of "contradicting the facts" when they alleged that "in the period of the Caribbean crisis we made an adventurist mistake by introducing rockets in Cuba, and then capitulated to American imperialism when we removed them."

Khrushchev announced on Oct. 28 that he had ordered the missiles removed. That was after President Kennedy threw a ring of U.S. warships around Cuba and ordered them to intercept Soviet vessels bound for Cuba. The Russian ships turned back.

"What was the actual state of affairs?" the letter asked. "The Central Committee and the Soviet government possessed trustworthy information that an armed aggression of United States imperialism against Cuba was about to start."

"Shock" To Imperialists "We realized with sufficient clarity that the most resolute steps were needed to rebuff aggression and defend the Cuban revolution effectively."

With that in mind, the letter added, "The Soviet government and the government of Cuba reached agreement on the delivery of missiles to Cuba, because that was the only way of preventing aggression on the part of American imperialism."

Such a step was portrayed as "a shock to the American imperialists, who felt for the first time in their history that in case they undertake an armed invasion of Cuba, a shattering retaliatory blow will be dealt at their own territory."

Two U. S. Advisers Wounded In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A U. S. Army captain and a sergeant working as military advisers to South Viet Nam were wounded Saturday in a sharply fought battle with Communist guerrillas 20 miles south of here, military sources reported Sunday.

Both men were evacuated to Saigon Sunday by a U. S. Army helicopter and then flown to the Army hospital at Nhatrang further north. Conditions of the two men were reported good.

Police said both had been shot in the back. The girl was Shari K. Smoyer, 18, a sophomore at Ithaca College and daughter of a Rochester real estate man. She lived in Perinton, a fashionable Rochester suburb.

The boy, Jack King of Genesee, was graduated from high school last month.

The two were last seen alive when they left on a date Saturday night, apparently bound for a drive-in movie.

The road where their bodies were found was described by sheriff's deputies as a lovers' sexually molested.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A blonde college coed and her 17-year-old date were found dead Sunday, their bodies sprawled in front of the boy's car on a lonely road.

Police said both had been shot in the back. The girl was Shari K. Smoyer, 18, a sophomore at Ithaca College and daughter of a Rochester real estate man. She lived in Perinton, a fashionable Rochester suburb.

Police gave no indication whether or not the girl had been sexually molested.

Three Charged With Anarchy

Three men described as neo-Nazis stand in a New York police court yesterday after a cache of weapons was found in a truck they had been driving in the area of a Bronx diner being picketed by integrationists. They were identified by police as, from left, Edward Cassidy, 18; Paul Joachim, 35, and John Corrigan, 20, all of Manhattan. The three were charged with conspiracy, attempting to incite a riot, violation of the anti-weapons law and anarchy.

White Leaders Invite Tawes To Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—An urgent appeal to Gov. Tawes to come to this racial trouble spot and help try to reach peace went out Sunday from white leaders.

After a meeting attended by county commissioners, city council members and members of the state legislature, a wire was dispatched inviting the governor to come here from Annapolis at his earliest opportunity.

Dr. Arthur Parker, president of the City Council, said: "The restrictions imposed by the National Guard are being used to penalize the majority in our county for the faults of the few—Negro and white."

"It is time for our elected officials to seize the offensive. The image of Cambridge cannot be marred any more than it has been."

A sense of foreboding—intensified by an economic pinch squeezing many businessmen—hung over the city as Negro integrationists vowed to resume demonstrations to knock down racial barriers.

Despite a demonstration ban decreed by leaders of 400 National Guardsmen in control of the city, the integration drive is being pressed. There are signs that Negroes may court wholesale arrests this week by street marches or attempted sit-ins.

They were evidently intent on keeping the pot boiling. And they were counting, at least in part, on the hope that drastic rules invoked by the military would swing the business community around to some settlement acceptable to the integrationists.

In addition to the effects of a Negro boycott, business sales have fallen sharply under such militia law edicts as: Every commercial establishment must close at 7 p.m.; no liquor, wine or beer may be sold at any time.

Businessmen have begun complaining vigorously. But there is as yet no sign of a break in the deadlock. For example, a number of restaurant owners are pressing a drive to nullify a proposed city charter amendment which would open eating places to Negroes.

They are confident they can obtain enough signatures to force a referendum on the amendment. Passed July 1, it becomes effective Aug. 20—unless it is petitioned to a vote of the people.

Khrushchev Will Launch Talks Today

Quarrel With China May Signal Kremlin Move Toward West

MOSCOW (AP) — Special U.S. and British envoys arrived in Moscow Sunday to try to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty with Premier Khrushchev at the very moment that a new eruption of Soviet-Chinese quarreling signaled a possible Soviet move toward the West.

While U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham were still at Moscow airport Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told them they would meet with Khrushchev Monday afternoon.

Harriman took this to mean that Khrushchev personally will start off the talks on the heels of a Soviet blast at the Red Chinese strongly indicating that the Kremlin may be ready to try to reach agreement on at least a partial test ban treaty in the three-power conference.

West Envoys Optimistic

Accusing the Chinese of trying to start a nuclear war, the Soviet statement said, "The central place among all the tasks facing the anti-imperialist (Communist) forces in the modern epoch is held by the struggle to prevent a thermonuclear war."

It also accused the Chinese leadership of trying to "maintain and strengthen international tension—especially in relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States."

While aimed at the Chinese, the Soviet statement seemed also to set the stage for the nuclear talks.

Both Harriman and Hailsham said they were optimistic about the meetings.

Zorin extended warm greetings to both Harriman and Hailsham. He made clear that the Soviet government looked forward to the nuclear talks.

The Soviet official told newsmen he, too, was optimistic about the outcome.

"We are always optimistic about an agreement," he said, "but it does not only depend on us. It depends very much on the West. We sincerely want an agreement and will work toward this next week."

Sessions In Kremlin

He said the negotiations would be conducted in the Kremlin. He declared he did not yet know whether after the opening meeting with Khrushchev he or Vasily Kuznetsov, another deputy foreign minister, would handle detailed negotiations for the Soviet Union.

Westerners believed Zorin will do this work. Harriman flew to Moscow from Washington by way of London. He announced to Zorin that he had instructions from President Kennedy to "make every effort to come to agreement."

Harriman was asked by newsmen whether he was hopeful about the nuclear test talks. He replied that he was "always hopeful in negotiations with the Soviet Union."

He said the United States would prefer a comprehensive prohibition to halt all nuclear weapons tests but is willing to agree to a limited ban which Khrushchev suggested in a Berlin speech July 2. Harriman said he hoped the talks could be brought to a successful conclusion in a week or 10 days.

Letup In Rail Talks
Deplored By Wirtz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz deplored Sunday a "failure of responsibility" by both management and labor in forcing the railroad work-rules dispute toward a compulsory solution which threatens the institution of collective bargaining.

"There is no affirmative attempt by either side in this situation to do anything about settling it even at this late hour," Wirtz said in a television interview (NBC-Sunday Report).

President Kennedy's blue-ribbon panel begins Monday to lay the basis for the report on which the administration is expected to base a request for legislation to end the four-year-old fight over what the railroads call "featherbedding."

The panel will report to President Kennedy July 19. He has said he will make his recommendations to Congress July 22. Both sides have agreed to delay a strike deadline until July 29.

Wirtz said the deadlock over outdated work rules, which the railroads contend cost them $600 million in unnecessary operating costs each year, proves "that collective bargaining in this industry wasn't ready for this particular problem."

Over the years, Wirtz said, the railroads and unions permitted these practices to accumulate and when automation made its impact the industry "wasn't prepared for it by way of bargaining habits or tradition."

Two U. S. Advisers
Wounded In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A U. S. Army captain and a sergeant working as military advisers to South Viet Nam were wounded Saturday in a sharply fought battle with Communist guerrillas 20 miles south of here, military sources reported Sunday.

Both men were evacuated to Saigon Sunday by a U. S. Army helicopter and then flown to the Army hospital at Nhatrang further north. Conditions of the two men were reported good.

Shot In The Back

Coed And Date Slain

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A blonde college coed and her 17-year-old date were found dead Sunday, their bodies sprawled in front of the boy's car on a lonely dirt road.

Police said both had been shot in the back.

The girl was Shari K. Smoyer, 18, a sophomore at Ithaca College and daughter of a Rochester real estate man. She lived in Perinton, a fashionable Rochester suburb.

The boy, Jack King of Geneseo, was graduated from high school last month.

The two were last seen alive when they left on a date Saturday night, apparently bound for a drive-in movie.

The road where their bodies were found was described by sheriff's deputies as a lovers' sexually molested.

Police gave no indication whether or not the girl had been sexually molested.

Khrushchev
Will Launch
Talks Today

Quarrel With China
May Signal Kremlin
Move Toward West

MOSCOW (AP) — Special U.S. and British envoys arrived in Moscow Sunday to try to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty with Premier Khrushchev at the very moment that a new eruption of Soviet-Chinese quarreling signaled a possible Soviet move toward the West.

While U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham were still at Moscow airport Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told them they would meet with Khrushchev Monday afternoon.

Harriman took this to mean that Khrushchev personally will start off the talks on the heels of a Soviet blast at the Red Chinese strongly indicating that the Kremlin may be ready to try to reach agreement on at least a partial test ban treaty in the three-power conference.

West Envoys Optimistic

Accusing the Chinese of trying to start a nuclear war, the Soviet statement said, "The central place among all the tasks facing the anti-imperialist (Communist) forces in the modern epoch is held by the struggle to prevent a thermonuclear war."

It also accused the Chinese leadership of trying to "maintain and strengthen international tension—especially in relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States."

While aimed at the Chinese, the Soviet statement seemed also to set the stage for the nuclear talks.

Both Harriman and Hailsham said they were optimistic about the meetings.

Zorin extended warm greetings to both Harriman and Hailsham. He made clear that the Soviet government looked forward to the nuclear talks.

The Soviet official told newsmen he, too, was optimistic about the outcome.

"We are always optimistic about an agreement," he said, "but it does not only depend on us. It depends very much on the West. We sincerely want an agreement and will work toward this next week."

Sessions In Kremlin

He said the negotiations would be conducted in the Kremlin. He declared he did not yet know whether after the opening meeting with Khrushchev he or Vasily Kuznetsov, another deputy foreign minister, would handle detailed negotiations for the Soviet Union.

Westerners believed Zorin will do this work.

Harriman flew to Moscow from Washington by way of London. He announced to Zorin that he had instructions from President Kennedy to "make every effort to come to agreement."

Harriman was asked by newsmen whether he was hopeful about the nuclear test talks. He replied that he was "always hopeful in negotiations with the Soviet Union."

He said the United States would prefer a comprehensive prohibition to halt all nuclear weapons tests but is willing to agree to a limited ban which Khrushchev suggested in a Berlin speech July 2. Harriman said he hoped the talks could be brought to a successful conclusion in a week or 10 days.

Suspected Bank
Robber Seized
In Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A 24-year-old man was arrested by FBI agents at an Atlantic City motel early Sunday on a charge of taking part in the $142,746.13 robbery of a Maryland bank last Monday.

The FBI identified the man as Roger John Uguro, who recently lived in Orange, N.J. Uguro was arrested as he walked out of the motel with a girl, according to the FBI. He was not armed and surrendered peacefully.

The FBI said $610 taken in the robbery was found on Uguro. In addition, agents said $17,000 more in bank robbery money was found less than an hour later in the home of Uguro's father, John Uguro, in Orange.

Roger Uguro was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner William E. Stringer and remanded to the Atlantic City jail in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Uguro was registered at the motel as John Mason, the name of the estranged husband of the girl found with him.

Last Monday, four men robbed the Eastover branch of the Citizens Bank of Maryland in Oxon Hill, Md. A fifth man remained outside to drive the getaway car. The FBI said the bandits carried a sawed-off shotgun and other weapons.

R. W. Bachman, special agent in charge of the Newark, N.J., office of the FBI, described Roger Uguro as an athletic type and an avid student of karate and yoga. He was said to favor continental style clothing and has the reputation of being a natty dresser. Bachman said Uguro was believed to be a painter.

The FBI arrested a Philadelphia fur salesman and his wife Thursday in connection with the robbery and said $2,480 of the stolen money was found in the home of relatives of the couple, identified as Mr. and Mrs. James D. Davis.

Youth Shoots
Parents, Self

OXFORD, Md. (AP)—Maryland State Police reported Sunday that a 17-year-old youth fatally shot his mother, critically wounded his father and then killed himself here early Sunday.

Police said the youth, Paul Alton Sard, shot his mother, Mrs. Frances Emily Dobson Sard, 45, and his father, Thomas Lavin Sard, 45, and then shot himself in the right temple. Police found young Sard lying on the kitchen floor with a .22 caliber rifle beside him.

The father, police reported, was shot in the chest and lower stomach while lying in bed. He managed to crawl to a neighbor's home and police were summoned. The father was reported in critical condition at Easton Memorial Hospital following an emergency operation.

The shootings took place at the family home on Railroad Street here soon after 3 a.m. Police said they understood that young Sard was intoxicated, had had some trouble with the family car and had walked home only a short while before the shootings.

Gwynn Oak Racial
Decision Due Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—Operators of Gwynn Oak Amusement Park were expected to announce Monday whether they will begin admitting Negroes.

Integrationists have said the announcement, expected by 2 p.m., will determine whether demonstrations at the 68-acre park will be resumed.

More than 380 persons, including 49 clergymen, were arrested during mass protests at the park July 4 and 7.

Scheduled weekend protests were canceled after the newly established Baltimore County Human Relations Commission began mediating the dispute.

Pittsburgh Press Ups
Sunday Edition Price

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Press Sunday announced a five-cent price increase for its Sunday edition, which has a circulation of more than 600,000. The new 25-cent price takes effect July 21.

The Press cited "substantial increases in production and distribution costs" as the reason.

A Town In Trouble
Cambridge Ruled
By Suspicion, Fear

EDITOR'S NOTE—Violence has come to the once-quiet Eastern Shore community of Cambridge, Md., bringing with it suspicion and fear. Something has broken down and nobody seems to know how to go about repairs. Here is a glimpse of an American town in trouble.

By SID MOODY

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—You can read about it, see pictures of it but still there's a shock when you see it face to face.

Coming into town on a sunny afternoon with the breeze off the Choptank River rustling the trees, everything looks as it should be, as it would be in so many other American towns.

The newsboy pedals steadily down the sidewalk tossing his papers up on the lawn.

Near the courthouse two women are standing by a parking meter talking about one of their sisters-in-law. "Oh, she's all right when she's feeling good. But when she's not, she's just plain ornery."

At the yacht basin the skipper of a freshly painted sailboat tugs in vain at a stubborn outboard motor.

Then you turn a corner and there it is. The guardsman, feet planted on the sidewalk outside the newsstand, his eyes watching you steadily from just beneath the rim of his helmet. The sun glints occasionally from the point of his bayonet fixed on his rifle.

Look down the street, past the Sears & Roebuck store, the phone company office, the bowling alley and there's another soldier, not moving, just watching.

The main business street divides the white and Negro sections and has an appropriate name—Race Street. Shoppers of both races go about their business briskly. There's not much talking.

"Oh, I might nod or say 'Hi' to a Negro acquaintance," said a white businessman. "But it's not like it was. The Negroes look at you with a question in their eyes like they don't know how you're going to receive them."

You talk about the racial blow-up with Editor Maurice Rimpo at the Cambridge Banner office as an old Negro begins sweeping the floor. He must hear what you're saying but he just keeps sweeping without a word, just as though you weren't there.

White housewives stopped driving into the Negro section to pick up their maids after their cars were stoned. One maid still comes to work although other Negroes have threatened her for doing so. "These people have been good to me," she said.

Headquarters for the Negroes is the white frame house of Gloria Richardson, a divorcee. Sitting on the porch in shorts and a blouse, she greets with a wave the local Negroes as they drive by. Young white college students from the North pass in and out, the screen door slamming behind them.

One of them, her long hair falling carefully groomed down her shoulders, talks mockingly about "our dear general"—Brig. Gen. George Gelston, commander of the guard here—and you hope that the other students have a deeper understanding about what's going on in Cambridge.

The National Guard has outlawed liquor in town and some one comes up on the porch to tell Mrs. Richardson they've heard the whites are bringing in some beer and whisky to a dance at the Cambridge Country Club.

"Well tell the general we'll get some of our own for a fish fry," says a voice inside the house.

That's about how things stand in Cambridge. The middle ground has melted away. The whites, proud descendants of people who used to own the slaves that were the forebears of the Negroes, had been making considerable progress toward complete integration. The barriers had come down in schools, church services, restaurants.

"Lord," said a white, "out at that new printing plant Negroes and whites are working side by side, even using the same toilets and nobody says nothin'."

But somehow, perhaps when the Negroes became militant, when the demonstrations became more insistent, the whites got mad. So did the Negroes and Race Street became more than a name.

"I think many of their (Negroes') demands are reasonable," said C. Burnham Mace, state's attorney, or county prosecutor. "But if violence occurs people get their backs up. These demonstrations, they're like Halloween is to kids. Hoodlums black and white will take advantage of turmoil to do their meanness."

The whites were willing to go forward, but at their own speed. The Negroes, particularly the young ones, felt a century after emancipation has been long enough. And so two forces collided and violence came to Cambridge.

Ghana Disputes
Dodd Charge It
Soviet Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said Sunday, evidence strongly suggests Ghana "has become the first Soviet satellite in Africa." The State Department challenged this conclusion.

The Ghanaian Embassy said the charge "is baseless and a travesty of the truth." It contended any objective study "will conclusively prove that Ghana is not in any way a satellite of any country, nor is it in any sense Communist-oriented."

Dodd said in his statement, "The lessons of Cuba and Guatemala, and now of Ghana, should drive home the fact that Communists do not always announce themselves as Communists."

The senator, acting as vice chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, also questioned U.S. financing of the huge Volta Dam project in the West African country.

His statement was issued as the introduction to a transcript of seven-month-old hearings. The transcript was titled "Is U.S. Money Aiding Another Communist State?"

Search Continues For Climbers

TALKEETNA, Alaska (UPI)—21. Kensington, Calif., and Don- The search on the icy slopes of North America's highest mountain for a seven-man Harvard University expedition was expected to continue late Sunday, and one pilot said he hoped to land on Muldrow Glacier to examine tracks left by the party.

Don Shelton, an Alaska bush pilot, and Lowell Thomas Jr., son of the globe-trotting commentator, scanned the slopes of 20,230 foot Mt. McKinley from their planes early Sunday, but bad weather forced them to abandon their efforts temporarily.

The climbing party was last seen Tuesday and a search was initiated Wednesday.

State Allocated $60,512,756 For Highway Work

Maryland has been allocated $60,512,756 of federal-aid highway funds during the government's 1965 fiscal year.

The total allocation, announced by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, will consist of $2.7 billion of Interstate Highway funds and $975 million for the regular highway aid program. With state-matched funds, the federal allocation is expected to support a $4,950,000,000 road building program.

The State of Maryland is scheduled to receive $4,336,729 toward its primary highway system.

For secondary or feeder roads, a total of $2,721,129 has been allocated by the Bureau of Public Roads, and $4,379,023 has been earmarked for urban highways in Maryland.

The funds for these three items totaling $11,436,881 are to be matched by the state on a 50-50 basis.

Maryland is being allocated $49,075,875 toward sections of the Interstate Highway system in the state. States are required to put up 10 cents for each $1.

The grand total of the Maryland allocation is $60,512,756, according to the current newsletter of the American Road Builders' Association.

Float Process Line Here Is Cited By 'Time'

The expansion of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 facilities here to include America's first float-process glass production line in cited in the current issue of Time magazine.

"Expanding its plant at Cumberland, Md., the article said, 'Pittsburgh Plate Glass is setting up a 'float process' that will produce high-quality plate by floating molten glass on a pool of molten tin."

"Since the process requires no expensive grinders, buffers or polishers, the company will be able to double productive capacity by adding only 100 men to its current work force of 700."

The Cumberland plant was cited in an article on "The Efficient Economy" which noted that the nation's economy is enjoying a remarkably prolonged rise in productivity.

Ground for the new float glass line was broken here this spring and the revolutionary line is slated to go into production next year.

The expansion of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 facilities here to include America's first float-process glass production line in cited in the current issue of Time magazine.

"Expanding its plant at Cumberland, Md., the article said, 'Pittsburgh Plate Glass is setting up a 'float process' that will produce high-quality plate by floating molten glass on a pool of molten tin."

"Since the process requires no expensive grinders, buffers or polishers, the company will be able to double productive capacity by adding only 100 men to its current work force of 700."

The Cumberland plant was cited in an article on "The Efficient Economy" which noted that the nation's economy is enjoying a remarkably prolonged rise in productivity.

State Allocated $60,512,756 For Highway Work

Maryland has been allocated $60,512,756 of federal-aid highway funds during the government's 1965 fiscal year.

The total allocation, announced by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, will consist of $2.7 billion of Interstate Highway funds and $975 million for the regular highway aid program. With state-matched funds, the federal allocation is expected to support a $4,950,000,000 road building program.

The State of Maryland is scheduled to receive $4,336,729 toward its primary highway system. The funds for these three items totaling $11,436,881 are to be matched by the state on a 50-50 basis.

Maryland is being allocated $49,075,875 toward sections of the Interstate Highway system in the state. States are required to put up 10 cents for each $1.

The grand total of the Maryland allocation is $60,512,756, according to the current newsletter of the American Road Builders' Association.

St. Swithin's Day Tradition Recalled Here

Even a few drops of rain today would gladden the hearts of many area residents.

For today is St. Swithin's Day, and according to tradition if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, you can expect 40 days of rain.

Drought-hit farmers and truck gardeners of the area were heartened yesterday when nearly an inch of rain fell between early morning and early afternoon.

In Cumberland, the drought was eased a bit Friday when a heavy rain, accompanied by hail, arrived in late afternoon.

St. Swithin was an English bishop who died in 862 and was buried outside his church in Winchester, England, according to his wishes to lie where passers-by might tread and rain might fall upon his grave.

Tradition says that in 971 officials of the church decided to move his remains inside the church but failed to do so because on the day of the reinterment rain fell and continued for 40 days.

Service Tomorrow For Joseph Groer

A service for Joseph Dale Groer, 14, of RD 2, Frostburg, who drowned Saturday while attending a picnic at Deep Creek Lake, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident. Rev. David Fetter will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

The drowning, the first in two years in the Deep Creek area, occurred about 4:20 Saturday afternoon, about one-half mile east of Stone's Tavern.

Sheriff James E. Frantz said the youth was attending a school picnic at the William Hesse cabin. Authorities said the youth was attempting to swim from the dock to a boat, a distance of 30 or 40 feet, and when he was about ten feet from the boat he sank and failed to come up.

Trooper Robert Cave of the Maryland State Police scuba diver team, located the body about 5:20 p. m. He said the youth's body was in about 15 feet of water.

An Oakland physician was at the scene when the boy's body was brought ashore, however he was unable to revive the youth.

The victim was a son of Lawrence and E. Marcella Groer, RD 2, Frostburg, (Garrett County).

Besides his parents he is survived by a sister, Marilyn Groer and two brothers, James and John Groer, at home; his paternal grandparents, Joseph L. and Anna Groer, Accident, and the paternal grandfather, Edward Wampler, RD 2, Frostburg.

The body is at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville. It will be taken to the church at noon tomorrow.

ORVILLE T. BEACHLEY
Services for Orville Theodore Beachley, 53, who died suddenly at his home, 1100 The Terrace, Hagerstown, Thursday, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. in the Hagerstown Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in River View Cemetery, Williamsport.

Mr. Beachley was a brother of Elmer T. Beachley, LaVale. He was born in Williamsport, the son of the late Orville L. and Besse (Taylor) Beachley.

A graduate of Franklin and Marshall College he was vice president of the Glass Shop Inc., and a partner in Lambillotte and Beachley, management consultants, Hagerstown.

A member of the Hagerstown Presbyterian Church, he served as a trustee and treasurer of investment fund. He was serving as foreman of the Grand Jury now in session in Washington

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A close friend, in my opinion, is making a serious mistake in bringing up her 4-year-old daughter. Please tell me if you think I should speak to her about it. My husband says I should mind my own business.

This woman waited 12 years for her first child. The little girl is beautiful and her mother doesn't let her forget it. When the child is asked her name she says, "My name is Debbie and I am beautiful."

Every Saturday afternoon the mother takes Debbie to the beauty salon for a manicure and a hair-set. When the child goes out in company her mother puts lipstick, rouge and eye make-up on her. I become awfully upset when I see this little kid all painted up. Several of my friends feel the same way. We can't understand why a mother would do this to her child. Shall I try to set her straight? — NAUSEA

Dear Nausea: A mother who would paint a four-year-old to look like a kewpie doll is so thoroughly hooked up that you can't reach her.

The real tragedy is that the youngster will in all probability be hooked up, too. It's unfortunate that children are available to anyone who is biologically able to produce them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten years ago I was divorced and remarried. My present wife is a fine person and we get along well together. At the time of the divorce Charlotte and I thought it would be best to move away — far away — so I took a job in another part of the world.

Now, after all these years we are back in the old home town and this is what I am writing about. I saw my ex-wife for the first time in 10 years. She looks more beautiful than ever. Everyone in the community has a lot of respect for the way she has conducted herself since the divorce. She is still single.

I would like to take her to dinner, say about once a month.

NOTICE OF ORDER GRANTING PETITION TO PROVIDE SEWERAGE FACILITIES FOR BEDFORD ROAD AREA IN ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND.

WHEREAS, a petition for the creation of a Sanitary District for the Bedford Road Area in Allegany County, Maryland, having been duly filed with the Allegany County Sanitary Commission by twenty-five property owners residing in said area and

WHEREAS, a public hearing was held in the County Commissioners' Meeting Room in the House of Representatives Building, Cumberland, Maryland, on Monday, May 27, 1963, at 7:30 p.m. E.D.S.T., pursuant to notice duly published in The Cumberland News, a newspaper of general circulation in Allegany County, to discuss the petition for the purpose of providing sewerage facilities for the Bedford Road Area of Allegany County, Maryland; and

WHEREAS, said public hearing was duly held at said time and place; a report was made as to the then estimated approximate cost of the sewerage facilities contemplated and the establishment of the Sanitary District; and WHEREAS, The Allegany County Sanitary Commission, the governing body of The Allegany County Sanitary District, Inc., finds that the establishment of a Sanitary District to provide sewerage facilities for The Bedford Road Area as contained within the hereinafter described area (the boundaries of the area as presented in the petition having been modified by the Sanitary Commission as the result of said hearing) is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of said area and that the establishment of a Sanitary District within said area is feasible from an engineering and financial standpoint and further finding that it is desirable to constitute the hereinafter described area as a Sanitary District.

NOW, THEREFORE, a petition having been filed with The Allegany County Sanitary Commission for the creation of a Sanitary District within the area hereinafter described (the boundaries of the area as presented in said petition having been modified by the Sanitary Commission as the result of said hearing), and pursuant to the provisions of Section 652 (a) (b) of Article 43 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Edition as amended), IT IS THIS 27TH DAY OF MAY, 1963, ORDERED BY The Allegany County Sanitary Commission, the governing body of The Allegany County Sanitary District, Inc., that the petition heretofore referred to for the constitution of a Sanitary District to provide sewerage facilities for The Bedford Road Area, to be hereinafter known as the Bedford Road Sanitary District, be and the same is hereby granted; the boundaries of the area as presented in said petition having been modified by the Commission, said district to be contained within the following boundaries:

BEGINNING at the concrete monument which forms the intersection of the East and Northern boundary line of the City of Cumberland, said monument being the Northeast corner of the City of Cumberland and thence along the North boundary line of the City for a distance of 2,435 feet to a point on said line, thence leaving said North boundary line of the City of Cumberland, North 67 degrees 16 minutes East 20,710 feet to concrete monument No. 165 on the Mason-Dixon Line which is the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary line and located at the intersection of U. S. Route No. 220 and the Pennsylvania State Line and thence following the East side of U. S. Route No. 220 in a Southerly direction to the intersection of U. S. Route No. 220 and Union Grove Road, thence following the North side of Union Grove Road in an Easterly direction approximately 2200 feet to intersect a line drawn South 28 degrees 8 minutes West from Mason-Dixon Line monument No. 164, thence following said bearing South 28 degrees 8 minutes West and on a line with State Road Commission monument "Wolfe" located at the intersection of U. S. Route No. 40 and Naves Crossroads for a distance of approximately 15,330 feet to a point on said line 500 feet North from State Roads Commission monument "Wolfe", thence turning 90 degrees on a bearing of South 61 degrees 52 minutes East from said line across Miller Road 170 feet to the centerline of Exits Creek and thence along the centerline of Exits Creek a distance of 1,000 feet, thence South 59 degrees 30 minutes West 5,700 feet, more or less, to State Roads Commission monument "Wolfe" located at the intersection of the City of Cumberland East boundary and U. S. Route No. 40, thence in a Northerly direction along the East boundary of the City of Cumberland line through a concrete monument located on Shades Lane and the City of Cumberland line to the concrete boundary at the point of beginning, containing approximately 3.7 square miles.

AND BE IT FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order be published in one or more newspapers published in Allegany County and that handbills be posted and circulated within the area described and that a copy of this Order be forwarded to The County Commissioners of Allegany County for their approval.

Any ten residents and landowners in the area involved dissatisfied with the Order of the Commission shall have the right to take within ten (10) days after the first publication of this Order as above provided, an appeal to The County Commissioners of Allegany County, who shall review, after due notice of hearing, the Commission's decision.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Clothes In Your Life

Let your clothes match the life you lead. You never know — the right costume may, for instance, land you a job! Many bosses believe that you "say" what you are with the clothes that you wear.

Simply cut and simply adorned clothes are smart for year-round office wear. Never to be worn for summer wear in the office is the sheer blouse! Low-cut backs and sleeveless blouses are also taboo.

Room Damaged By Fire At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The interior of an annex basement room of a Frostburg home was heavily damaged by fire Friday afternoon. The fire at the home of Mrs. Agnes Dishong, 188 Ormond Street, destroyed several articles of clothing and rugs which were stored in the room.

Charles Morgan, a mail carrier who was passing by the house, which was unoccupied at the time, notified the Frostburg Fire Department. Firemen were at the scene for about an hour and used exhaust fans to clear the smoke which had permeated most of the house.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c) 1963: By The Chicago Tribune

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—Neither vulnerable and as South, dealer, you hold:

♠ J 3 ♥ 10 ♦ A 4 ♣ K J 10 7 6 5 4 2

What is your opening bid?
A.—Best results are usually obtained on hands of this type by taking preemptive action. Our vote would be for a four club opening.

While this by-passes a possible three no trump contract, it is advisable to make it as difficult as possible for the opponents to enter the auction.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ A K Q J 3 ♥ A 10 ♦ A J 6 3 ♣ A 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

3 ♦ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. This is preferable to bidding four spades since nine tricks may easily prove to be the limit of the hand. Besides, partner can still carry on to four spades if his hand is best suited for that contract.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ J 7 3 ♥ A K 10 2 ♦ K Q ♣ A Q 9 6

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—We have a leaning toward two hearts, a reverse, showing 19 points. The more normal call of two no trump may not work out so well because of the doubleton king-queen of diamonds. Partner might raise to three no trump on some hand with three little diamonds and a five card spade suit that would produce a game only in the major. Over two hearts, partner's rebid may serve to clarify the situation.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ A K J 5 4 2 ♥ 5 4 2 ♦ K 3 ♣ A 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠

Pass 3 ♥ Pass 3 ♠

Pass 4 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five hearts. Your only concern is the club suit, and a leap over game in hearts will convey this message to partner. If he has either first or second round control in clubs, he will realize that is what you need for a slam.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ K 7 4 ♥ 9 ♦ K J 9 7 5 3 ♣ A Q 7

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Some further attempt is called for on your part to look for a suit contract. If partner returns to three no trump you can quit but, if he bids something else, you should next show the club support.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 5 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 9 8 6 5 3 ♣ 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. There is no future in this hand and quite probably no better spot. In any event, you have nothing to bid and your best hope for a substantial profit lies in West's reopening the bidding for his side.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ J 3 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K Q 10 6 ♣ K 9 8 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

4 ♠ Pass Pass 4 NT

Pass 5 ♦ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. The opponents are not in their best spot and you should do absolutely nothing to disturb them. They are obviously loaded with hearts (your partner's bid suggests this) and a double can only serve to drive them into the other major. If and when West bids five hearts voluntarily, you may have to decide whether to save in spades.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ A 4 3 ♥ J 5 3 2 ♦ A K Q J 6 ♣ A

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♥ Double Pass 1 ♠

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. This hand is valued at 21 points and as such calls for strong action. However, when you have forced a response from partner it is not wise to offer an immediate raffle with just three trumps. A jump in diamonds will encourage partner to continue the contest with any modest holding. If he rebids spades you will be in a position to raise him and if he can bid three no trump you will have a suitable dummy.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Clothes In Your Life

Let your clothes match the life you lead. You never know — the right costume may, for instance, land you a job! Many bosses believe that you "say" what you wear with the clothes that you wear.

Simply cut and simply adorned clothes are smart for year-round office wear. Never to be worn for summer wear in the office is the sheer blouse! Low-cut backs and sleeveless blouses are also taboo.

Room Damaged By Fire At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The interior of an annex basement room of a Frostburg home was heavily damaged by fire Friday afternoon. The fire at the home of Mrs. Agnes Dishong, 188 Ormond Street, destroyed several articles of clothing and rugs which were stored in the room.

Charles Morgan, a mail carrier who was passing by the house, which was unoccupied at the time, notified the Frostburg Fire Department. Firemen were at the scene for about an hour and used exhaust fans to clear the smoke which had permeated most of the house.

Karen Childers Wins Pageant In W. Virginia

Miss Charleston Is State Beauty

By FANNY J. SEILER

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Lovely Karen Childers, a brown-haired Marshall University coed from South Charleston reigns as the new Miss West Virginia.

The 19-year-old brown-eyed lass was named to succeed West Virginia University coed Diane Hunter of Morgantown here Saturday night. She competed in the annual Jaycee-sponsored contest as Miss Charleston.

Miss Childers said she was "very happy to represent the state of West Virginia and will do my best." She goes to Atlantic City to compete in the Miss America pageant later this summer.

The 5-foot-4½ inch beauty is working toward a teaching degree at Marshall. She plans to earn a second degree, in speech therapy, do some writing and teach. Later, she said she hopes to get married.

The new Miss West Virginia who measures in at 36-23-36, is a junior at Marshall. She attended South Charleston High School.

Among her hobbies are water skiing and oil painting. She also likes to write short stories.

The Huntington native said her performance of a dramatic scene from "The Diary of Anne Frank" in her bid for the Miss West Virginia title was her first acting.

Miss Childers said her act in the Miss America pageant will be along the same line as the one she did in the Miss West Virginia contest but "will be changed."

First runner-up in the contest was Judy Kay Shinn of Point Pleasant, Miss Mason County who also was named by her fellow contestants as Miss Congeniality. Cynthia Neal of East Raintelle, Miss Greenbrier County, was selected second runner-up.

850 Reservists In Training At Camp Dawson

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—About 850 Army reservists from seven states arrived at nearby Camp Dawson Sunday to begin their annual 15-day summer training. Col. William E. Miller, post commander, said.

Principal units include the 983rd Engineer Battalion, Belle Air, Ohio; the 2nd Special Forces Group of Columbus; 342nd Military Police Company of Zanesville, Ohio; and the 350th Psychological Warfare Company of Cleveland.

Miller said the engineer battalion will continue work on the 4,400-foot airstrip being constructed at the camp, as well as warehouse construction, and work on a firing range, and other projects.

The battalion, which has company-sized units in Parkersburg, New Martinsville and Marietta, Ohio, is commanded by Lt. Col. Thomas V. Warren of Belle Air.

A special forces operation, including airborne infiltration, will be staged Tuesday by the 2nd Special Forces under command of Lt. Col. Ray Glaze of Columbus. An additional 130 reservists who reported here on an individual basis from throughout the 2nd Army area will serve as guerrilla forces for the exercise.

Clarysville Firemen To Receive Reports

FROSTBURG — Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. with Norman Filsinger, president, in charge. Reports will be given by Kenneth Winfield, chairman of the picnic committee, and Francis Fatkin on the executive committee meeting of the Allegany - Garrett county Volunteer Firemen's Association meeting.

Fund Is Granted To Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg has been awarded $57,500 in Accelerated Public Works funds to help finance a project that would increase the water distribution system here.

Rep. Charles Mc. Mathias reported yesterday the total project would amount to $115,000. A city official explained that the $57,500 was the amount originally applied for, but since then an amended application has requested $87,000.

The consulting engineers for placing additional eight-inch and six-inch water mains in the municipal system are Whitman, Regardt and Associates, Baltimore.

The city official said the Mayor and Council is awaiting an answer to the amended application for $87,000 before going ahead with the project.

Auxiliary Meets

FROSTBURG—The Ladies Auxiliary of Frostburg Aerie 1273, Eagles, will meet today at 8 p. m. with Nell Kennedy presiding. Plans for the annual picnic will be made.

SPEAKER — Dr. N. O. Olson, Animal Pathologist, West Virginia University, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual West Virginia Poultry Convention at Moorefield, July 31-August 2. Dr. Olson has performed some of the outstanding research on the CRD complex (poultry disease), and will present the latest information on its control.

Plant Expert Talks To Lions

FROSTBURG — Henry R. Yates, Rhododendron enthusiast and Hybridizer spoke on "Development and Breeding of the Modern Hardy Hybrids" at Frostburg Lions Club meeting a recent evening at Happy Hills Restaurant.

Mr. Yates pointed out that with almost 1000 species plants found growing in nearly all parts of the world, the hybridist has unlimited materials and opportunities to combine by plant breeding the exotic beauty of the tender Asian Species with the less spectacular but more hardy native rhododendrons found growing in this area.

Kodachrome slides taken in his garden and the garden of Joseph B. Gable, dean of Rhododendron Hybridizers, were shown. The slides illustrated progress made in this field. A question and answer period followed.

WVU Governors View Plans For Improvements

Forestry Building Bids To Be Asked

KEYSER, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia University Board of Governors, meeting here during the weekend, said bids will be opened in August for construction of a $2 million Forestry Building to be completed in late 1964 or early 1965.

WVU President Paul A. Miller said the facility will make the university one of the nation's major center of forestry study. It will be located on the Evansdale campus. The four-story building will contain wood utilization and technology laboratories and is expected to allow an increase in undergraduate forestry enrollment from the present 275 students to about 400.

The building is to be financed by money from the WVU capital improvements fund and a $958,000 grant from the Area Redevelopment Administration.

The board also discussed plans for a new $1.5 million law center also to be erected on the Evansdale campus and included in the university's $10 million capital improvements program.

In other action, Morgantown architect Robert Bennett was retained to draw up plans for renovations to the Chemistry building. Half of the work is to be done in the summer of 1964 and the other half the following summer.

Tax Accounts Being Closed

FROSTBURG — J. Harry Hanson, retiring tax collector for the city of Frostburg, said that at the present time he is closing out his accounts with the city and that all taxes and water rents due before June of 1963 should be paid immediately. Hanson said he is bonded and is obligated to collect all of these arrears before final retirement. The accounts are all overdue at this time and if not paid voluntarily must be collected by due process of law, he said.

Thomas McMorran, succeeded Hanson as tax clerk. His offices are located in the ground floor of the city hall in the same room as Hanson.

Episcopal Church School Opens Today

FROSTBURG — Rev. Martin Davidson, OGS, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church announced that a vacation Church School will be held today through July 26 from 9:30 a. m. to noon for children three years of age and older.

Fund Is Granted To Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg has been awarded $57,500 in Accelerated Public Works funds to help finance a project that would increase the water distribution system here.

Rep. Charles Mc. Mathias reported yesterday the total project would amount to $115,000. A city official explained that the $57,500 was the amount originally applied for, but since then an amended application has requested $87,000.

The consulting engineers for placing additional eight-inch and six-inch water mains in the municipal system are Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore.

The city official said the Mayor and Council is awaiting an answer to the amended application for $87,000 before going ahead with the project.

WVU Governors View Plans For Improvements

Forestry Building Bids To Be Asked

KEYSER, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia University Board of Governors, meeting here during the weekend, said bids will be opened in August for construction of a $2 million Forestry Building to be completed in late 1964 or early 1965.

WVU President Paul A. Miller said the facility will make the university one of the nation's major center of forestry study. It will be located on the Evansdale campus. The four-story building will contain wood utilization and technology laboratories and is expected to allow an increase in undergraduate forestry enrollment from the present 275 students to about 400.

The building is to be financed by money from the WVU capital improvements fund and a $958,000 grant from the Area Re-development Administration.

The board also discussed plans for a new $1.5 million law center also to be erected on the Evansdale campus and included in the university's $10 million capital improvements program.

In other action, Morgantown architect Robert Bennett was retained to draw up plans for renovations to the Chemistry building. Half of the work is to be done in the summer of 1964 and the other half the following summer.

Tax Accounts Being Closed

FROSTBURG — J. Harry Hanson, retiring tax collector for the city of Frostburg, said that at the present time he is closing out his accounts with the city and that all taxes and water rents due before June of 1963 should be paid immediately. Hanson said he is bonded and is obligated to collect all of these arrears before final retirement. The accounts are all overdue at this time and if not paid voluntarily must be collected by due process of law, he said.

Thomas McMorran succeeded Hanson as tax clerk. His offices are located in the ground floor of the city hall in the same room as Hanson.

Uncle Sam Pays, Again And Again

When the fourth special session of the United Nations General Assembly adjourned it was praised by participating delegates, including some from the U. S., for having resolved the problem of financing U. N. military operations. To the contrary, what it did was merely postpone the decision.

The U. N. has two involvements, the one in the middle East since 1956 and that in the Congo since 1960. The total deficit for these operations amounts to $110 million, because 29 nations have not paid a cent for the Middle East effort and 45 have refused to pay for the Congo force.

Most of the nations failing to pay up plead inability to do so. Others, particularly in the Soviet bloc, refuse to pay for political reasons.

The Assembly adopted several resolutions. One called for collective fiscal responsibility by member countries, another urged setting up a "peace fund" on a voluntary basis. Two more set up a special scale of assessments to keep the Congo and Middle East operations going until the end of the year, excusing small nations from paying as much as originally demanded.

The result is that the U. S. again (through voluntary contributions) is picking up most of the tab. And the U. N., knowing the U. S. will do this, continues to skirt the problem.

It seems probable that not until the U. S. bows its back and refuses to pay others' shares, will the Assembly face up to this problem. And it probably will not do it even then.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Not Much Chance

This is Captive Nations Week, as proclaimed, perhaps with some embarrassment, by President Kennedy — and it comes, truly, at a strange conjunction of the stars.

On the one hand, the sponsors of the Week, the insistently active National Captive Nations Committee, with Herbert Hoover as its Honorary Chairman and the fire-breathing Dr. Lev E. Dobrainsky of Georgetown University as its working head, is busy deploring our "many grave sins of omission in the Cold War, for which we shall unquestionably pay heavily later." "Beyond all rationality," says Dr. Dobrainsky, "is the thought of allowing the avowed enemy a 'breather' to put his empire in order and strengthen it for further thrusts against the Free World."

While Dr. Dobrainsky speaks with an iron voice, however, the Administration obviously hopes that Khrushchev, with Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman waiting on his doorstep, will not take any of this "sturm and drang" stuff on the part of the Captive Nations Committee too seriously.

It is not that anybody contemplates a conscious "sellout" of eastern European hopes in exchange for a nuclear test-ban pact with the Soviets. The idea of an "opening to the East," which was first explored by the Vatican, is something that is conceived in expectations of a quid for a quo. The theory behind it all is that Soviet Russia has actually been undergoing a mutation, or a sea-change, and is ready to ease up on the Captive Nations. The "things that are God's" in Poland and Hungary, so the hopes run, will be freed from secular or political interference; the churches will be allowed to preach and practice Christianity without hindrance; and some measures of civil liberty might be expected to follow in an atmosphere that is purged of religious tensions.

When this columnist put the foregoing case for the "opening to the East" to organizers of Captive Nations Week, however, he got a short answer: "Crumbs!" He also got a prediction that the Kennedy Administration, for all the hopes that Averell Harriman may carry with him to Moscow, will not dare settle for crumbs.

Khrushchev is already on record as being willing to accept a test-ban agreement that would cover nuclear explosions in the air or underwater provided the NATO nations are ready to sign a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union and its East European "allies." But the trade of pact for pact, short of including along with it a Soviet guarantee of free elections in the East European satellites, will almost certainly never be made.

For one thing, a pact is a treaty, and all treaties to which the U. S. is a signatory must be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate under the "advice and consent" clause of the Constitution. It is impossible to visualize two-thirds of the Senate signing away the hopes of the East European captive peoples, or granting what would amount to recognition of the long-term legitimacy of the East German Communist State.

If you don't believe that the Senate would put its collective foot down on a treaty that would consign eastern Europe to the Soviets in perpetuity, just take a look at the list of honorary members of the National Captive Nations Committee. The list includes Senators Paul Douglas of Illinois, Frank Lausche of Ohio, Ralph Yarborough of Texas, Keating and Javits of New York, Kuchel of California, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Thurston Morton of Kentucky, and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. A bi-partisan list that crosses all lines, whether of party or ideology.

Moreover, there is more than idealism involved. A Scott of Pennsylvania has a Polish and Hungarian vote to worry about; a Lausche, with much of his strength in Cleveland, Ohio, has all the bloods of eastern Europe watching him. In Connecticut, Senator Thomas Dodd cannot live politically without support from people with Polish ties.

There is one way around the U. S. Senate; an exchange of "declarations" on the part of the NATO nations and the Warsaw Pact states would not have to run any Constitutional gauntlet, for it would not have force of a treaty. But one cannot conceive of such a "declaration" passing muster with the West Germans or with de Gaulle.

The worries about a "sellout" this week, then, are not very real, even if Averell Harriman might be complaisant, which is extremely doubtful, anyway.

Case Of The Shrinking Pillow

Public Opinion Does Matter In A Dictatorship

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — As the world observes from time to time Nikita Khrushchev's erratic and abrupt changes in policy, there is one factor that rarely gets the emphasis that it deserves. It is the influence of public opinion inside a dictatorship country, even when the press and radio are strictly controlled by the government.

It might be said of dictators, as it has been said of kings, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." Joseph Stalin, in a talk at Moscow with the late Harry Hopkins, special emissary of the Roosevelt administration, argued against the termination of lend-lease by the United States and said it could affect adversely the public opinion inside the Soviet Union. When Mr. Hopkins smiled, the dictator retorted: "Oh, yes, we have our public opinion, too."

Because the ultimate triumph of popular opinion and the overthrow of dictatorships are not always immediately discernible on the horizon, they are too often brushed aside as not only improbable but impossible. That's why particular significance attaches to the informal and impromptu remarks made by former President Dwight Eisenhower on Wednesday during a panel discussion with European leaders on a CBS television program transmitted by the Telstar system simultaneously from Europe and America.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked by Walter Cronkite, moderator of the program, to assess the seriousness and perhaps the duration of the ideological battle between Moscow and Peking. Mr. Eisenhower replied:

"Well, there's been one comforting thing about the history of dictatorships. The people that are power hungry begin to fall out among themselves. So here, I think, we have one example of—we have a Communist power becoming sort of polarized. It is now centered both in Peking and in the Kremlin, and, naturally, jealousies develop. And, if these jealousies can extend not only into the military and political world but also into the economic, then we would hope that this rift is not only noticeable and, you might say, important, but it will grow. "But, along with this development between these two Communist giants, we've got to remember this: There are a number of people that are held in subjugation in the world that are themselves unhappy about these things. It isn't the people themselves that are Communists and are embracing Communist doctrines, but you go over — I was in Czechoslovakia, for example, just before the takeover in that country. Well, there was no question about the dedication of the mass of the people to freedom.

"This holds, I think, for all the Eastern (European) nations. They really want to be free and to pursue their own independent courses. Well, they are now held down by Communist military power, and that will continue for some time because, certainly, we're not going to start an aggressive war to break up this thing.

"But within Communist areas themselves, there is constantly an enlightenment that must go along with the scientific development that we see so marked in the Communist nations today. There's bound to become a better understanding of freedom and what it means in West Germany as opposed to East Germany, in the Western nations as opposed to the Iron Curtain countries. You just cannot bring into a whole population a knowledge and a practice of great and sophisticated scientific techniques without bringing in also an information, an understanding, that's now denied them. So, I think that, while sometimes it may become very disappointing that time has to be depended upon, the whole history of dictatorships is that sooner or later they do destroy themselves. "Now, in the meantime, I think we ought to encourage every kind of dissension, both internal and as between the Chinese and the Russians, and do everything we can to show the power and the determination of the free nations to be dedicated to those basic principles of human dignity and freedom and liberty that are truly the unifying influences among those democratic and self-governing nations."

Mr. Eisenhower's analysis is significant in itself because he has reached his conclusions after eight years in the White House. Where he could make an intimate study of the Soviet system based on intelligence reports, week after week, and on the information that comes to our government regularly from the governments in Western Europe which are close to the Iron Curtain countries.

Mr. Eisenhower today is not, of course, subject to the inhibitions in public discussion that restrain a Chief Executive in office. President Kennedy could not openly say what Mr. Eisenhower did. Yet it must be inferred that again and again the administration here has had in the back of its mind the possibility that, as a result of steady pressures on the Moscow government, the internal situation in the Soviet Union would come to a head.

The high cost of armaments weighs heavily on the Soviet dictatorship, since many benefits are denied the Soviet people because their money is being spent to carry on the arms race. A government that controls the economy, moreover, utilizes all sorts of restrictions that impair the individual initiative and freedom of the citizens.

The Eisenhower analysis will not make good reading in Moscow, but it gives a ray of hope to those in America who believe that ultimately the Communist dictatorship will go the way of the tyrannical autocracy of the czars in Russia.

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

Every thoughtful young person in every age has asked the question raised by Cynthia Gunter in the July 11 Cumberland News: Should I be proud or ashamed of my lot, condition, or status into which I have been born?

The answer is as eternal as the question. Be proud, Cynthia, of your heritage, and so think and live to add to it. You will find that you hold yourself in greater esteem and self-respect. If you have respect for yourself, it is natural to expect others, regardless of their race, color or creed, to have that same self-respect. The result — mutual respect. When there is mutual respect between individuals, there can be no room for intemperance and injustice.

You see, Cynthia, it comes right to the point that you and your life are the answer to your question. Other people, government legislation and court decisions may set guidelines and boundaries for your behavior, but cannot live your life for you. It is for you to determine "if it is really worth the trouble in this constant battle of prejudice." If you retire from the battle now, will prejudice go away? No! Will the piece of paper you mention come to life without you? No! Resolve then to a life that will help check prejudice, that will help make the Constitution a living banner for a great nation. Cynthia, you dared a question for purpose — now dare to follow that purpose. The world, and you, will be the better for it.

No Known Cause Or Cure For Psoriasis

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Psoriasis is a stubborn skin disorder. Most victims look forward to warm weather because the sun has a beneficial effect, particularly when combined with a coal tar ointment which makes the skin more sensitive to ultraviolet light.

Psoriasis usually begins as a red, slightly raised lesion the size of a pea. Later, dry, silvery scales cover the center part, with one layer heaped upon another. If the upper crust is pulled off or wiped away, one or more bleeding points will be noted. There may be only one lesion, which comes and goes. Others have patches of unusual size and shape scattered over the body. The elbows and knees are favored sites with the lower back, scalp, and nails next in order.

But psoriasis has no characteristic pattern because there are several varieties. When the nails are involved, for example, the condition may resemble ringworm with ridging, thickening, and discoloration and an accumulation of powdery material under the edges. But a more typical form produces tiny, uniform pits which make the nail resemble a thimble. Scales on the scalp may create a superdandruff.

Psoriasis is more unsightly and embarrassing than serious. It is considered a skin disease of the healthy, even though a small percentage of any group of people, healthy or otherwise, will have this outbreak.

There is no known cause or cure but the unsightly scaling can be controlled with lotions or ointments containing a variety of chemicals. No internal remedy is effective and diet is of little or no value. The use of the corticosteroid hormones in ointments is the current remedy of choice. This product is applied and sealed in place with a plastic covering. These hormones also are injected under the lesions.

Averell Harriman Best Qualified American To Negotiate Test Ban

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Diplomat who sits down with Russian and British delegates to negotiate a test ban agreement has had more experience with Stalin, Khrushchev, and the Russian people than almost any other American. He also has run the gamut of many jobs in the USA, from governor to Cabinet member.

Averell Harriman was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and critics used to say that otherwise he might have had difficulty feeding himself.

The first part of his life was devoted to polo ponies and Long Island society. The second part to public service.

He and Nikita Khrushchev are about as opposite numbers as you could find any place in the capitalist-Communist world. One is rotund and roly-poly. The other tall and lean. One is the son of a Ukrainian coal miner who left school at the age of ten to help his father in the mines. The other is a graduate of Groton and Yale, and instead of helping his father in a mine, inherited from his father a sizable chunk of the Union Pacific Railroad, part of the Illinois Central, and part of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

But for some strange reason the two like each other. Khrushchev once told me: "I found Ambassador Harriman a reasonable man. He and I once joked about his becoming my economic adviser.

"What kind of a job could you do for us?" I asked him.

"How much would you pay me? Would you give me a Dacha?" Harriman asked, referring to the Russian country house. "If so, I'll take this one."

"OK, it's yours," I said. "Let's sign a pact."

"I'm still waiting for him to come to work," said Khrushchev.

This good-natured camaraderie between two tough representatives of two directly opposite political systems exists despite some clashes in the past.

Harriman Reverses Himself

Of all the Americans who had business with the Russians before the war, Harriman was in the lead — and with unfortunate results. One of his companies had purchased the manganese deposits of the Caucasus, which the Soviets canceled, with a long wrangle ensuing and no love lost on either side.

Harriman also owned 35 percent of the Silesian-American Corporation in Poland, which controlled a large share of the world's zinc and was also seized by the Russians.

Despite these clashes, Harriman was sent to Russia as a war-time ambassador and proceeded to nag and goad Washington into speeding up the supply line to the Red Army which helped turn the tide of battle at Stalingrad, and eventually the war. Regardless of past differences, Harriman knew that the key to victory was the Red Army.

After the war, however, Harriman turned sour. He came back to the new Truman administration after the death of FDR to caution Truman against further cooperation. At that time, Truman faced two schools of advisers — one was led by Harriman, who believed in the straight-arm for Russia, the other by Henry Morgenthau, then Secretary of the Treasury, who believed that the peace of the world depended on cooperation between the world's two most powerful nations.

Gradually, Harriman has come around to the point of view which he once opposed. He has made the transition partly because of changes inside the Soviet, the more liberal policies of Khrushchev, and partly because Harriman himself has changed.

Harriman is a slow starter. He did not get into public life until he was well over forty, and then he was extremely reticent. He dabbled diffidently in the NRA in the early days of the New Deal, became a friend of Harry Hopkins, accompanied FDR on the famed mid-Atlantic battleship meeting with Winston Churchill, later became ambassador to England, then to Russia.

A Youthful 71

It was as Secretary of Commerce under Truman that Harriman really began to develop. He showed great courage in combating McCarthyism, and considerable executive ability. He also served as ambassador for the Marshall Plan in Paris, later came back to run for governor of New York.

Close friends say that Averell's chief handicap in those years was his ambition to run for President. This colored his thinking, sometimes made him too cautious. He worried too much about political reactions.

But as he approached 65, Averell gave up all idea of running for President, and since then he has reached his prime. A slow starter in age as well as politics, Averell looks ten years younger than he is at 71.

In the first days of the New Frontier, John F. Kennedy didn't quite know what to do with Harriman. Here was a very young President with an elder statesman who had been governor of New York, a member of the Cabinet, and held about every job in the book. Kennedy wanted younger men, men he knew well. So he shunted Harriman off with the difficult job of settling Laos.

Privately, Harriman was a n't happy. But no one ever knew it, least of all Kennedy. And as time passed, the President got to know him, liked him, gained confidence in him. They may differ, but they have respect for each other, just as he and Khrushchev differ but have respect for each other.

In Moscow, Harriman can look back on a long vista of years and experiences that have told him that now is probably the last chance we will get to negotiate a test ban agreement. If this chance is lost, the poisoning of the earth's atmosphere will continue, the Red Chinese will get their own atomic bomb, and World War III may be inevitable.

Ah, vacation time . . .

He dated the deposit in March and signed his name with a flourish. M. Rollo Thwistle. It went straight to the Sea Swept Dunes Motel which advertised two rooms and a bath for $135 a week.

Mr. Thwistle's mother-in-law, who was addicted to a yellow silk bathrobe and looked like an Army weather balloon, said that there was just no use going to the beach on vacation unless one was right one the beach.

He often wished she was in the water. But, alas, "Mamma" lived with him and his suspicious spouse, and the only thing they allowed Rollo was a wish or two. Mrs. Thwistle was a lovely creature with two-toned blonde hair, neither shade of which was real. Her figure was early momma. The children also looked like grandma — Irene, 9; Rollo Jr., 7; and Kathy 5.

They were all little butterballs, although father was tall and slender and, when he wore his wrinkled Sunday suit, he looked like a bobby pin. They had to wait from March until the first of July for vacation time, but it finally arrived and the family took off for the shore in an old Fairlane. Rollo and his Bessie sat up front. Grandma and the little ones were jammed in back, counting gasoline stations on the road.

The trunk was so jammed with suitcases that it had to be tied shut, and Rollo's home-made canoe was on top of the car. It was a real steamer of a day and they hadn't gone 10 miles before Kathy had to go to the bathroom. Rollo was in the highspeed lane between towns and it wasn't easy to edge over to the right, what with other drivers blowing horns and calling him names, but he made it.

Bessie took Kathy out in the marshes, but Kathy confessed that she really didn't have to go. She was merely tired of standing on the front seat. Grandma was arguing with Irene and little Rollo about who counted the most gasoline stations. The old lady always wanted to win.

They got to the seashore and found that the Sea Swept Dunes was not precisely on the beach. Actually, it was two miles back in the marshes, off the main road. Also, the manager said that there would be no meals for the $135, even though the newspaper advertisement said "All meals on premises." It meant that meals were there, if Rollo wanted to pay.

Grandma said she couldn't sleep with all the children, so Kathy slept with mother and daddy. Junior slept on an army cot by himself. Still, a vacation is a vacation, so they all got in the car and drove to the beach. Grandma had four or five Tom Collins, and referred to the tender children as brats with no manners.

When Rollo said, "Don't ever call my children brats," Grandma ma began to cry and Bessie almost hit her husband with an ice cream cone. Irene limped and said she had been bitten by a crab.

They drove back to the Sea Swept Dunes and found that there were two items on the menu: southern fried chicken and blue fish — no children's portions.

They had the chicken. It was breaded a half inch thick and what was underneath was pure latex. Grandma took a twisting bite and her teeth fell out. Irene wanted to know why she couldn't have a nice set like that, and then she wouldn't have to go to the dentist. The homemade pie tasted like the box it came in.

The rooms were cool and quiet until someone put the lights on. Then the Jersey Bluebirds hummed like dive bombers and Rollo and Bessie spent part of the night swatting them. Kathy cried that she couldn't sleep on account of her sunburn. Irene wanted to know if she would get lockjaw from a crab bite. Grandma complained that the mattresses were thinner than the sheets.

Little Rollo awakened at midnight and said he was hungry. His stomach hurt. So big Rollo got dressed and went out and bought two large pizzas. On his way back in, the manager stopped him and said, "No food on the premises." Besides, he wanted $15 extra for the army cot.

It was a gay and carefree vacation all the way. Someone at the bar downstairs asked M. Rollo Thwistle what the M stood for and he said "Montmorcency." Even the bartender laughed. Rollo laughed too, but he was hurt. So he and Bessie sat at the bar and got drunk. When they got back up to their room, grandma was in a snit. She said she was no baby sitter, never was and never would be.

By the third day, the children began to blister, and the blister became chills. Rollo tried his canoe in the surf. He didn't mind it turning over, but he was wounded when it drifted against the stone jetty and sank. On Sunday they went to church and Bessie ruined her best print dress because of sunburn lotion.

Rollo blew every dollar he could spare and, when the week was up, they all got in the car and went home. None of the adults were on speaking terms. They were halfway when Kathy began to cry and said she had to go to the bathroom. Her father told her to shut up. Grandma said that was no way to bring up children. Rollo wished that he could punch grandma in the nose.

When they drew up in front of the house, they found that someone had left the lawn sprinkler on. The lawn was in an eight-inch hole. The house was hot and stuffy. Bessie said never again. Never in a million years.

Ah, vacation time . . .

Uncle Sam Pays,
Again And Again

When the fourth special session of the United Nations General Assembly adjourned it was praised by participating delegates, including some from the U. S., for having resolved the problem of financing U. N. military operations. To the contrary, what it did was merely postpone the decision.

The U. N. has two involvements, the one in the middle East since 1956 and that in the Congo since 1960. The total deficit for these operations amounts to $110 million, because 29 nations have not paid a cent for the Middle East effort and 45 have refused to pay for the Congo force.

Most of the nations failing to pay up plead inability to do so. Others, particularly in the Soviet bloc, refuse to pay for political reasons.

The Assembly adopted several resolutions. One called for collective fiscal responsibility by member countries, another urged setting up a "peace fund" on a voluntary basis. Two more set up a special scale of assessments to keep the Congo and Middle East operations going until the end of the year, excusing small nations from paying as much as originally demanded.

The result is that the U. S. again (through voluntary contributions) is picking up most of the tab. And the U. N., knowing the U. S. will do this, continues to skirt the problem.

It seems probable that not until the U. S. bows its back and refuses to pay others' shares, will the Assembly face up to this problem. And it probably will not do it even then.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Not Much Chance

This is Captive Nations Week, as proclaimed, perhaps with some embarrassment, by President Kennedy — and it comes, truly, at a strange conjunction of the stars.

On the one hand, the sponsors of the Week, the insistently active National Captive Nations Committee, with Herbert Hoover as its Honorary Chairman and the fire-breathing Dr. Lev E. Dobrainsky of Georgetown University as its working head, is busy deploring our "many grave sins of omission in the Cold War, for which we shall unquestionably pay heavily later." "Beyond all rationality," says Dr. Dobrainsky, "is the thought of allowing the avowed enemy a 'breather' to put his empire in order and strengthen it for further thrusts against the Free World."

While Dr. Dobrainsky speaks with an iron voice, however, the Administration obviously hopes that Khrushchev, with Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman waiting on his doorstep, will not take any of this "sturm und drang" stuff on the part of the Captive Nations Committee too seriously.

It is not that anybody contemplates a conscious "sellout" of eastern European hopes in exchange for a nuclear test-ban pact with the Soviets. The idea of an "opening to the East," which was first explored by the Vatican, is something that is conceived in expectations of a quid for a quo. The theory behind it all is that Soviet Russia has actually been undergoing a mutation, or a sea-change, and is ready to ease up on the Captive Nations. The "things that are God's" in Poland and Hungary, so the hopes run, will be freed from secular or political interference; the churches will be allowed to preach and practice Christianity without hindrance; and some measures of civil liberty might be expected to follow in an atmosphere that is purged of religious tensions.

When this columnist put the foregoing case for the "opening to the East" to organizers of Captive Nations Week, however, he got a short answer: "Crumbs!" He also got a prediction that the Kennedy Administration, for all the hopes that Averell Harriman may carry with him to Moscow, will not dare settle for crumbs.

Khrushchev is already on record as being willing to accept a test-ban agreement that would cover nuclear explosions in the air or underwater provided the NATO nations are ready to sign a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union and its East European "allies." But the trade of pact for pact, short of including along with it a Soviet guarantee of free elections in the East European satellites, will almost certainly never be made.

For one thing, a pact is a treaty, and all treaties to which the U. S. is a signatory must be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate under the "advice and consent" clause of the Constitution. It is impossible to visualize two-thirds of the Senate signing away the hopes of the East European captive peoples, or granting what would amount to recognition of the long-term legitimacy of the East German Communist State.

If you don't believe that the Senate would put its collective foot down on a treaty that would consign eastern Europe to the Soviets in perpetuity, just take a look at the list of honorary members of the National Captive Nations Committee. The list includes Senators Paul Douglas of Illinois, Frank Lausche of Ohio, Ralph Yarborough of Texas, Keating and Javits of New York, Kuchel of California, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Thurston Morton of Kentucky, and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. A bi-partisan list that crosses all lines, whether of party or ideology.

Moreover, there is more than idealism involved. A Scott of Pennsylvania has a Polish and Hungarian vote to worry about; a Lausche, with much of his strength in Cleveland, Ohio, has all the bloods of eastern Europe watching him. In Connecticut, Senator Thomas Dodd cannot live politically without support from people with Polish ties.

There is one way around the U. S. Senate; an exchange of "declarations" on the part of the NATO nations and the Warsaw Pact states would not have to run any Constitutional gauntlet, for it would not have force of a treaty. But one cannot conceive of such a "declaration" passing muster with the West Germans or with de Gaulle.

The worries about a "sellout" this week, then, are not very real, even if Averell Harriman might be complainant, which is extremely doubtful, anyway.

Case Of The Shrinking Pillow

Public Opinion Does Matter In A Dictatorship

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — As the world observes from time to time Nikita Khrushchev's erratic and abrupt changes in policy, there is one factor that rarely gets the emphasis that it deserves. It is the influence of public opinion inside a dictatorship country, even when the press and radio are strictly controlled by the government.

It might be said of dictators, as it has been said of kings, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." Joseph Stalin, in a talk at Moscow with the late Harry Hopkins, special emissary of the Roosevelt administration, argued against the termination of lend-lease by the United States and said it could affect adversely the public opinion inside the Soviet Union. When Mr. Hopkins smiled, the dictator retorted: "Oh, yes, we have our public opinion, too."

Because the ultimate triumph of popular opinion and the overthrow of dictatorships are not always immediately discernible on the horizon, they are too often brushed aside as not only improbable but impossible. That's why particular significance attaches to the informal and impromptu remarks made by former President Dwight Eisenhower on Wednesday during a panel discussion with European leaders on a CBS television program transmitted by the Telstar system simultaneously from Europe and America.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked by Walter Cronkite, moderator of the program, to assess the seriousness and perhaps the duration of the ideological battle between Moscow and Peking. Mr. Eisenhower replied:

"Well, there's been one comforting thing about the history of dictatorships. The people that are power hungry begin to fall out among themselves. So here, I think, we have one example of—we have a Communist power becoming sort of polarized. It is now centered both in Peking and in the Kremlin, and, naturally, jealousies develop. And, if these jealousies can extend not only into the military and political world but also into the economic, then we would hope that this rift is not only noticeable and, you might say, important, but it will grow. "But, along with this development between these two Communist giants, we've got to remember this: There are a number of people that are held in subjugation in the world that are themselves unhappy about these things. It isn't the people themselves that are Communists and are embracing Communist doctrines, but you go over — I was in Czechoslovakia, for example, just before the takeover in that country. Well, there was no question about the dedication of the mass of the people to freedom.

"This holds, I think, for all the Eastern (European) nations. They really want to be free and to pursue their own independent courses. Well, they are now held down by Communist military power, and that will continue for some time because, certainly, we're not going to start an aggressive war to break up this thing.

"But within Communist areas themselves, there is constantly an enlightenment that must go along with the scientific development that we see so marked in the Communist nations today. There's bound to become a better understanding of freedom and what it means in West Germany as opposed to East Germany, in the Western nations as opposed to the Iron Curtain countries. You just cannot bring into a whole population a knowledge and a practice of great and sophisticated scientific techniques without bringing in also an information, an understanding, that's now denied them. So, I think that, while sometimes it may become very disappointing that time has to be depended upon, the whole history of dictatorships is that sooner or later they do destroy themselves. "Now, in the meantime, I think we ought to encourage every kind of dissension, both internal and as between the Chinese and the Russians, and do everything we can to show the power and the determination of the free nations to be dedicated to those basic principles of human dignity and freedom and liberty that are truly the unifying influences among those democratic and self-governing nations."

Mr. Eisenhower's analysis is significant in itself because he has reached his conclusions after eight years in the White House. Where he could make an intimate study of the Soviet system based on intelligence reports, week after week, and on the information that comes to our government regularly from the governments in Western Europe which are close to the Iron Curtain countries.

Mr. Eisenhower today is not, of course, subject to the inhibitions in public discussion that restrain a Chief Executive in office. President Kennedy could not openly say what Mr. Eisenhower did. Yet it must be inferred that again and again the administration here has had in the back of its mind the possibility that, as a result of steady pressures on the Moscow government, the internal situation in the Soviet Union would come to a head.

The high cost of armaments weighs heavily on the Soviet dictatorship, since many benefits are denied the Soviet people because their money is being spent to carry on the arms race. A government that controls the economy, moreover, utilizes all sorts of restrictions that impair the individual initiative and freedom of the citizens.

The Eisenhower analysis will not make good reading in Moscow, but it gives a ray of hope to those in America who believe that ultimately the Communist dictatorship will go the way of the tyrannical autocracy of the czars in Russia.

Letters To The Editor

Sir: Every thoughtful young person in every age has asked the question raised by Cynthia Gunter in the July 11 Cumberland News: Should I be proud or ashamed of my lot, condition, or status into which I have been born?

The answer is as eternal as the question. Be proud, Cynthia, of your heritage, and so think and live to add to it. You will find that you hold yourself in greater esteem and self-respect. If you have respect for yourself, it is natural to expect others, regardless of their race, color or creed, to have that same self-respect. The result — mutual respect. When there is mutual respect between individuals, there can be no room for intolerance and injustice.

You see, Cynthia, it comes right to the point that you and your life are the answer to your question. Other people, government legislation and court decisions may set guidelines and boundaries for your behavior, but cannot live your life for you. It is for you to determine "if it is really worth the trouble in this constant battle of prejudice." If you retire from the battle now, will prejudice go away? No! Will the piece of paper you mention come to life without you? No! Resolve then to a life that will help check prejudice, that will help make the Constitution a living banner for a great nation. Cynthia, you dared a question for purpose — now dare to follow that purpose. The world, and you, will be the better for it.

No Known Cause Or Cure For Psoriasis

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Psoriasis is a stubborn skin disorder. Most victims look forward to warm weather because the sun has a beneficial effect, particularly when combined with a coal tar ointment which makes the skin more sensitive to ultraviolet light.

Psoriasis usually begins as a red, slightly raised lesion the size of a pea. Later, dry, silvery scales cover the center part, with one layer heaped upon another. If the upper crust is pulled off or wiped away, one or more bleeding points will be noted. There may be only one lesion, which comes and goes. Others have patches of unusual size and shape scattered over the body. The elbows and knees are favored sites with the lower back, scalp, and nails next in order.

But psoriasis has no characteristic pattern because there are several varieties. When the nails are involved, for example, the condition may resemble ringworm with ridging, thickening, and discoloration and an accumulation of powdery material under the edges. But a more typical form produces tiny, uniform pits which make the nail resemble a thimble. Scales on the scalp may create a superdandruff.

Psoriasis is more unsightly and embarrassing than serious. It is considered a skin disease of the healthy, even though a small percentage of any group of people, healthy or otherwise, will have this outbreak.

There is no known cause or cure but the unsightly scaling can be controlled with lotions or ointments containing a variety of chemicals. No internal remedy is effective and diet is of little or no value. The use of the corticosteroid hormones in ointments is the current remedy of choice. This product is applied and sealed in place with a plastic covering. These hormones also are injected under the lesions.

But coal tar remains one of the safest and most useful of the older remedies. These products have been objectionable because they are messy and stain the clothing. The newer varieties are more refined and cosmetically acceptable.

TOMORROW: No appetite at ages 2 and 3.

Irene wanted to know why she couldn't have a nice set like that, and then she wouldn't have to go to the dentist. The homemade pie tasted like the box it came in.

The rooms were cool and quiet until someone put the lights on. Then the Jersey Bluebirds hummed like dive bombers and Rollo and Bessie spent part of the night swatting them. Kathy cried that she couldn't sleep on account of her sunburn. Irene wanted to know if she would get lockjaw from a crab bite. Grandma complained that the mattresses were thinner than the sheets.

Little Rollo awakened at midnight and said he was hungry. His stomach hurt. So big Rollo got dressed and went out and bought two large pizzas. On his way back in, the manager stopped him and said, "No food on the premises." Besides, he wanted $15 extra for the army cot.

It was a gay and carefree vacation all the way. Someone at the bar downstairs asked M. Rollo Thwistle what the M stood for and he said "Montmorency." Even the bartender laughed. Rollo laughed too, but he was hurt. So he and Bessie sat at the bar and got drunk. When they got back up to their room, grandma was in a snit. She said she was no baby sitter, never was and never would be.

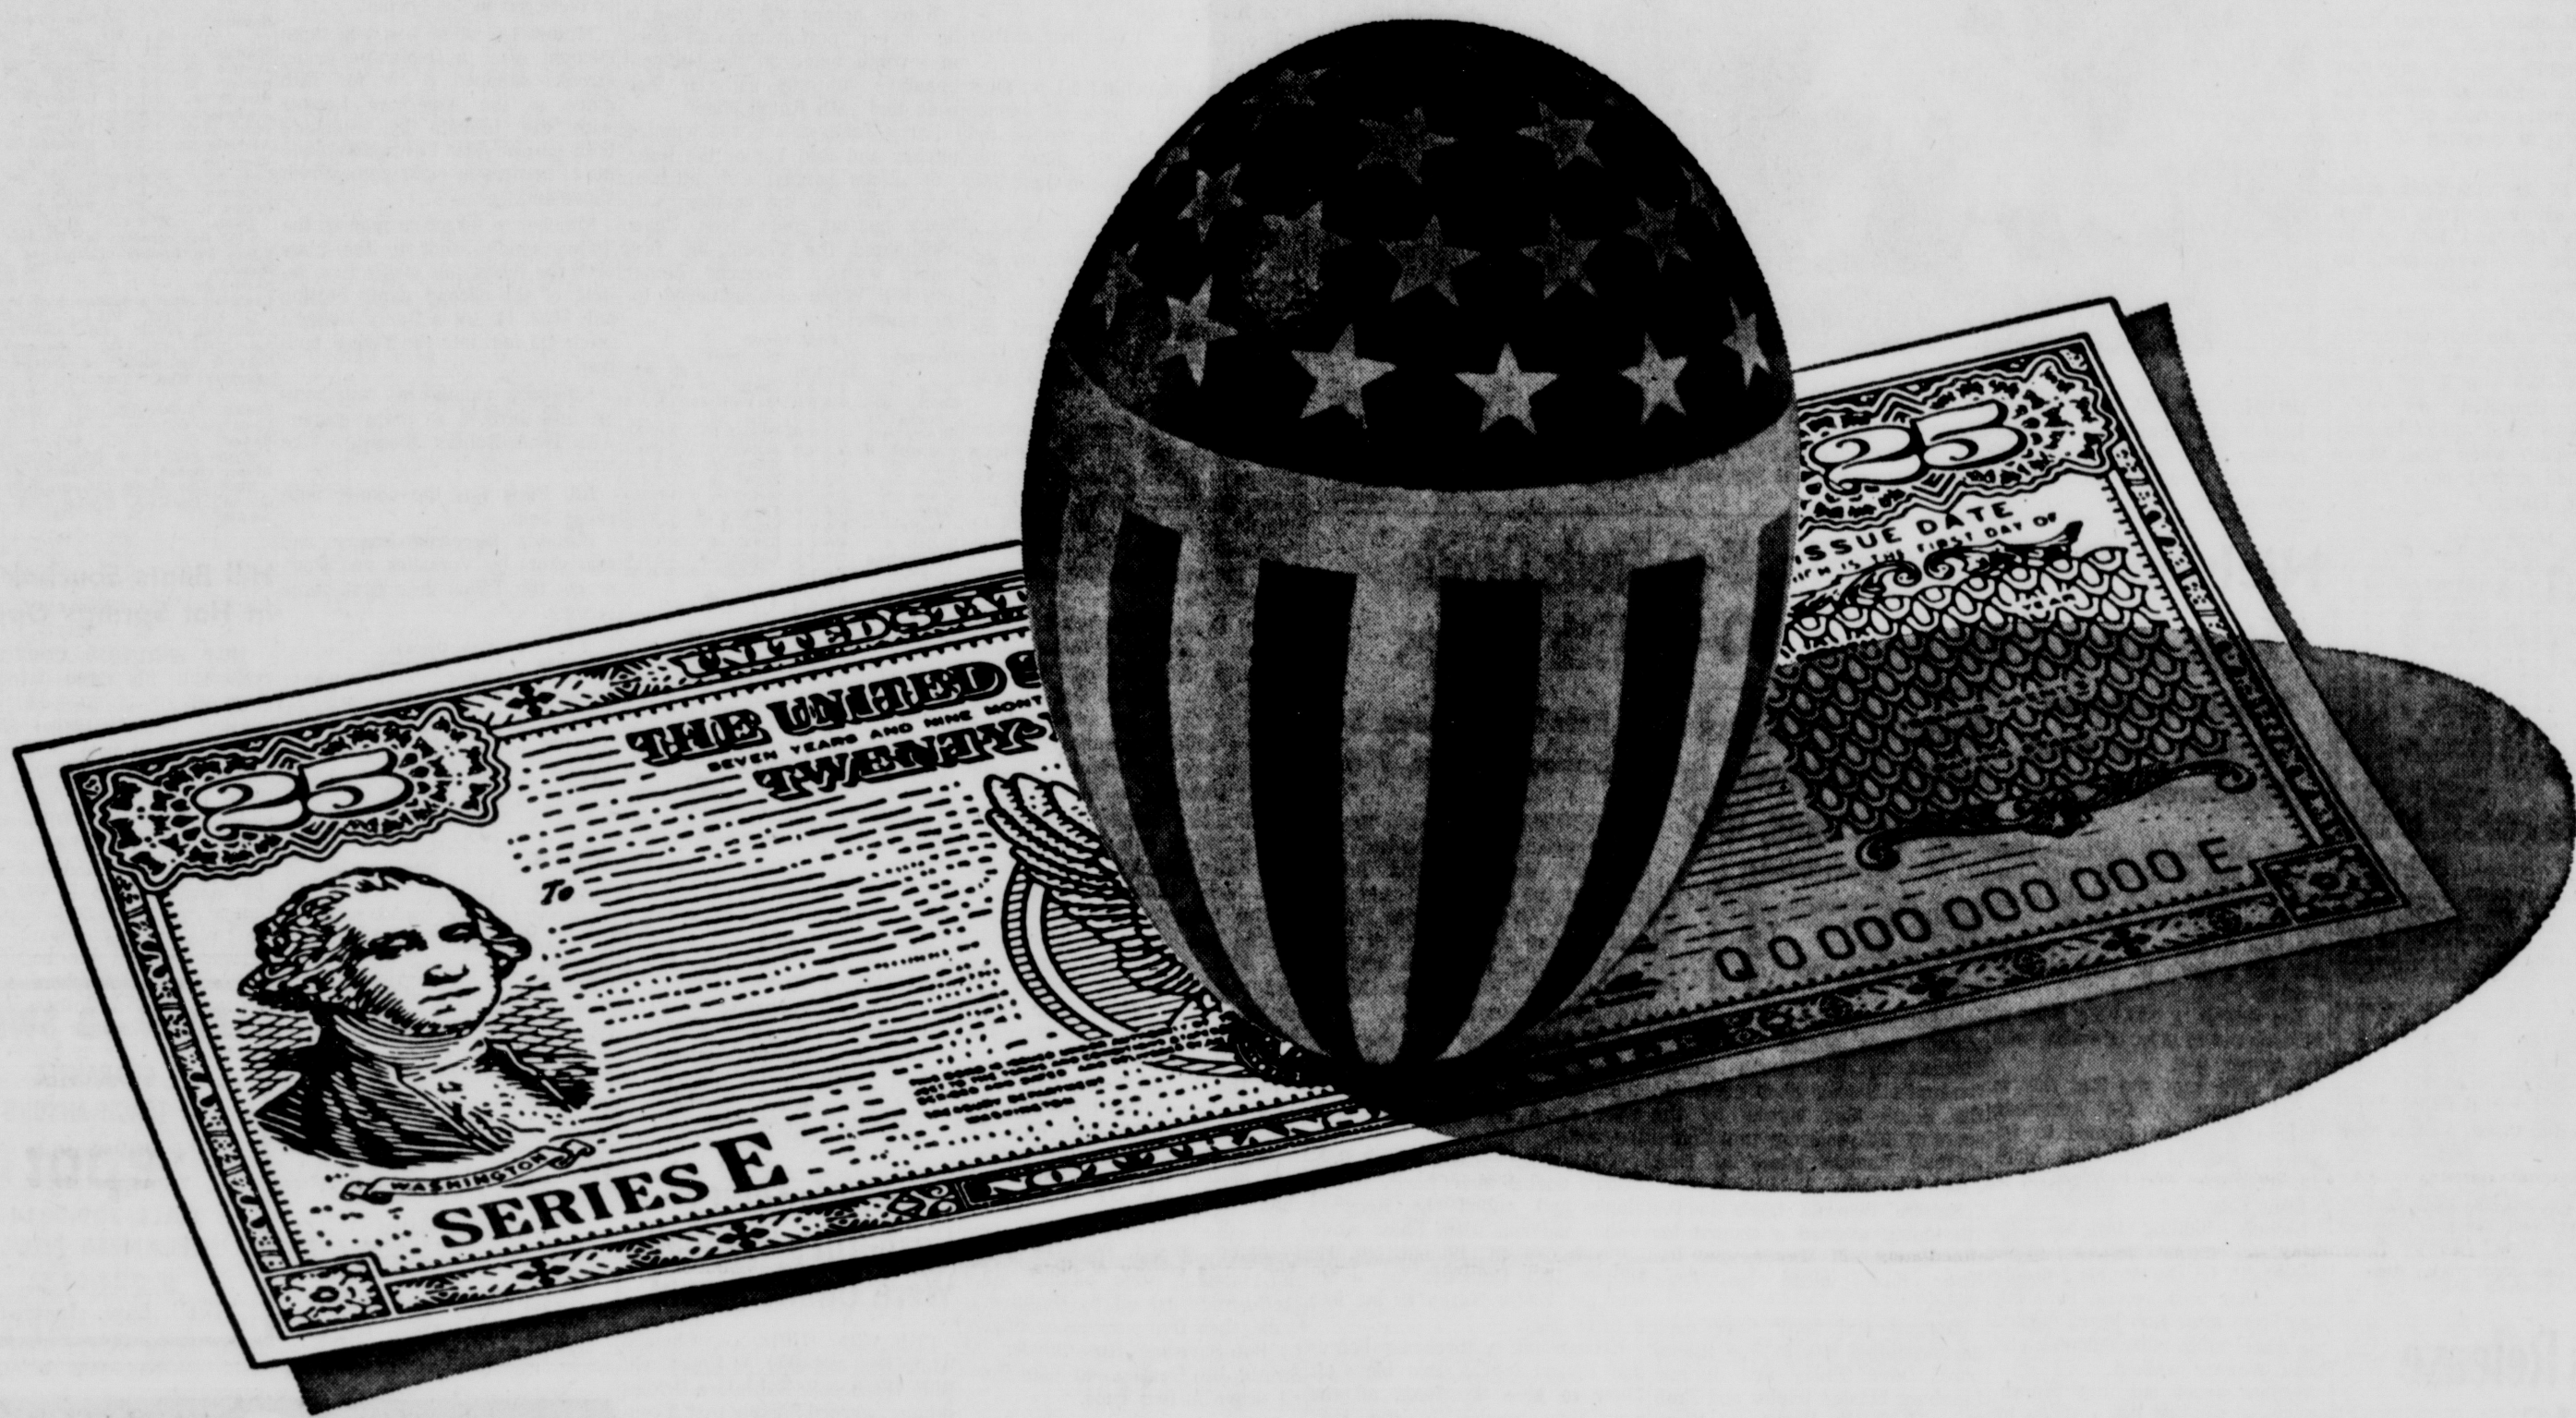

By the third day, the children began to blister, and the blister became childish. Rollo tried his canoe in the surf. He didn't mind it turning over, but he was wounded when it drifted against the stone jetty and sank. On Sunday they went to church and Bessie ruined her best print dress because of sunburn lotion.

Rollo blew every dollar he could spare and, when the week was up, they all got in the car and went home. None of the adults were on speaking terms. They were halfway when Kathy began to cry and said she had to go to the bathroom. Her father told her to shut up. Grandma said that was no way to bring up children. Rollo wished that he could punch grandma in the nose.

When they drew up in front of the house, they found that someone had left the lawn sprinkler on. The lawn was in an eight-inch hole. The house was hot and stuffy. Bessie said never again. Never in a million years.

Ah, vacation time . . .

Yankees Sweep Pair From Athletics, Orioles Divide With Chicago

Downing Fires 4-Hitter, Fans Ten In 5-0 Win

Five Homers Among New York's 24 Hits, Hamilton Wins, 11-6

KANSAS CITY (AP) — New York's defending world champion Yankees belted out 24 hits, including five home runs, received another fine pitching performance from young Al Downing and swept a doubleheader from Kansas City Sunday, 11-6 and 5-0.

Downing, called up from Richmond in mid-season, allowed the green-and-gold clad A's only four hits in his second game shutout. The left-hander struck out 10 and walked two in boosting his record to 5-1.

He got all the backing he needed in two solo home runs by Tom Tresh, his 14th and 15th of the season, and a two-run drive by Elston Howard, his 19th.

In the opener, the A's rammed in four runs in the first inning but the Yankees responded with a 14-hit attack that won it for relief man Steve Hamilton, now 3-2.

The Yankees went ahead to stay in the seventh when Yogi Berra doubled and scored on a single by Hector Lopez.

ORIOLE HIT BY PITCHED BALL — Baltimore second baseman Jerry Adair is carried from the field at Comiskey Park on a stretcher after being hit in the mouth by a ball thrown by White Sox pitcher John Buzhardt in the third inning of yesterday's second game of a doubleheader. Doctors at Mercy Hospital, Chicago, said Adair suffered split lips and needed several stitches, but it was not serious. (AP Photofax)

Nichols Beats Angels, 5-0, Reds Divide After Red Sox Lose, 10-8 With Braves

Radatz Preserves Shutout; Sox Drop 6½ Games Behind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chet Nichols and relief ace Dick Radatz combined for a five-hit shutout as the Boston Red Sox beat the Los Angeles Angels 5-0 Sunday for a split of their doubleheader.

The Angels, getting a lot of mileage out of a lot of walks, won the opener 10-8.

The split kept the Red Sox in second place in the American League, but they slipped to 6½ games back of the New York Yankees, who won two games at Kansas City.

Nichols, bidding for his first complete major league game since 1955, let the Angels get only one runner past second base but was lifted after Bob Perry opened the Angel ninth with a double and Leon Wagner walked.

Radatz struck out Billy Moran, then was touched for a single by Charley Dees. But Perry, trying to score from second on the hit, was out at the plate and pinch hitter Bob Sawdski ended the game by fanning.

The Angels were outlast 13 to 9 in the opener but they drew seven walks off loser Earl Wilson and Arnold Earley and turned every one into a run.

After blowing an early five-run advantage, the Angels regained the lead, 7-6, on a two-run double by Billy Moran in the fifth. Moran drove in another run with a single in the seventh and scored the deciding run in the same inning on a single by winning pitcher Dan Osinski.

Spencer, who was picked up by the Reds after being unconditionally released by the Dodgers earlier in the year, batted .239 in 30 contests for Cincinnati. Spencer, who had a lifetime average of about .244, is in his 10th year of major league play.

Freese had been sent to San Diego in May after exhibiting weak batting early in the season but was recalled Friday. The 29-year-old third baseman was out most of last season after breaking his right ankle during an intrasquad game in spring training. He appeared in just 18 games in 1962.

Golfer Who Never Took Lesson Wins Public Links Title

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Bobby Lunn, the soft-spoken new National Public Links golf champion, struck a blow for the poor hackers Sunday when he revealed he never had taken a golf lesson in his life.

Lunn, who played through 170 grueling holes during the past week, culminated the test with a one-up victory over Steve Opperman in the 36-hole finals at sun-blancketed Haggan Oaks golf course.

It was Lunn's first taste of fame — he hadn't even been able to win in high school circles — and he was overcome with emotion after the victory.

Lunn started playing golf six years ago and just "picked up" the game from watching others. He has done a lot of caddy-ing — and he loves to practice.

BATTER COBB
DETROIT (UPI) — Ty Cobb batted .240 in 1963, his first big league season, and never went under the .300 mark again during a career that ended in 1928.

Bob Shaw Loses, 5-3, Saves Second, 7-6

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joe Torre's bases-loaded double sparked Milwaukee's three-run first inning that put the Braves off and running to a 7-6 victory over Cincinnati Sunday and a split of their doubleheader. The Reds won the first 5-3 on homers by Marty Keough and Vada Pinson.

Bob Shaw, who lost the first game as a starter, preserved the nightcap triumph for Tony Cioninger when the Reds rallied in the ninth.

A single by Pinson, Frank Robinson's double and Charlie Neal's single had pulled the Reds to within one run when Shaw came on with one on and one out. He retired Don Pavletich on a fly and got Eddie Kasko to hit into a force play.

Keough hit a three-run homer and Pinson had a solo blow off Shaw to give the Reds all the runs they needed in the first game. John Tsitouris was the winner.

Torre had a first game homer for the Braves and Gordie Coleman hit one as a pinch hitter for the Reds in the second.

Fox's Two-Run Single In 9th Beats Birds, 3-2

Adair Is Injured, McCormick Defeats Ray Herbert, 6-3

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox counter-rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning on Nellie Fox's clutch single and beat Baltimore 3-2, gaining a split in a Sunday doubleheader which was enlivened by a dispute over hit batsmen.

The Orioles took the opener 6-3.

After falling behind 2-1 on Dick Brown's two-run single off winner Hoyt Wilhelm in the top of the ninth in the second game, the White Sox came back in their half of the inning.

They loaded the bases with none out against Steve Barber on singles by Pete Ward and J.C. Martin and a walk to Al Weis. Stu Miller came on and retired the next two men, but then Fox delivered his decisive single to right, scoring two runs.

In the fourth inning, Manager Billy Hitchcock of the Orioles charged after Chicago starter John Buzhardt after two Baltimore players had been struck by Buzhardt's fast balls. Hitchcock was restrained before reaching the pitcher.

This brought Hitchcock storming out of the Oriole dugout after Buzhardt but Hitchcock was restrained by umpires and players. Buzhardt threw his arms up in a gesture which appeared to mean he couldn't understand it and wasn't throwing at the batters.

Difficulties began in the third inning when one of Buzhardt's fast balls smacked second baseman Jerry Adair on the left side of the mouth. Adair fell to the ground and had to be carried off the field. He suffered split lips and needed stitches. Doctors at Mercy Hospital said Adair might have suffered a slight fracture but it was nothing serious.

In the fourth inning with runners on second and third and two out, a Buzhardt fast ball hit Brooks Robinson on the helmet and decked the star third baseman.

In the opener, Baltimore knocked out Ray Herbert in the third inning when pitcher Mike McCormick led off by drawing a walk, then five successive singles by Bob Saverine, Russ Snyder, Al Smith, Jim Gentile and John Powell drove in four runs.

McCormick won it with sharp eighth-inning help from Miller. With two on and none out in the eighth, Miller came in and yielded a run-scoring single to Ron Hansen, then retired the last six men in order.

Cubs, Cards Split Pair

Chicago Wins, 7-3 After 10-3 Defeat

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs by Ron Santo, Lou Brock and Ernie Banks lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 7-3 victory over St. Louis for a split of their doubleheader Sunday. The Cardinals scored four times in the first inning of the opener and romped 10-3.

Santo's homer, his second of the day, and a two-run single by Don Landrum gave the Cubs a 4-1 lead in the second game and they were never headed. Brock connected in the fifth and Banks put it out of reach in the eighth with a two-run shot.

Banks' homer was the 352nd of his career, putting him all alone in seventh place on the National League's all-time list. He had been tied with Ralph Kiner.

Larry Jackson was the winning pitcher and Ron Taylor the loser. St. Louis rapped Cub pitching for 16 hits in the opener, with Groat getting four. Ken Boyer highlighted the Cards' big first inning with a three-run homer and Bill White also homered for the winners.

Hitchcock Agrees Buzhardt's Beanballs Were Unintentional

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox manager Al Lopez and Billy Hitchcock, Baltimore Orioles skipper, agreed Sunday that a couple of beanballs by pitcher Johnnie Buzhardt were unintentional.

Both cooled down considerably after the second game of the doubleheader which erupted in a near free-for-all when Buzhardt hit Jerry Adair in the cheek in the second inning and bounced a pitch off Brooks Robinson's helmet in the 4th.

The brawl never got to a punching stage, however. Umpires and cooler heads on both sides averted an incident.

Hitchcock said after the game he was willing to accept Lopez' explanation that Buzhardt, who hadn't pitched for 10 days, was "cold" and his control was off.

"I don't believe that Buzhardt was aiming at our players intentionally," Hitchcock said. "But Buzhardt is known as a control pitcher and it seemed at the time more than a coincidence that he hit two batters in such a short time."

Hitchcock at first declined to comment on the incident, but said later he was "ready to forget the whole thing."

X-rays disclosed Adair suffered a minor fracture near his left cheekbone. Ten stitches were required to close a cut on his lip.

Twins' Homer Barrage Beats Indians Twice

Minnesota Scores 5-3, 8-2 Victories

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins cashed in 11 runs on five homers and swept the Cleveland Indians 5-3 and 8-2 in their doubleheader Sunday.

Reserve Don Mincher belted a grand slam and Harmon Killebrew added a two-run homer in the second game, while Earl Battey, Zoilo Versalles and Vic Power homered in the opener.

Minnesota, which has won three straight after a five-game losing streak, snapped a tie for fifth place in the American League with the Indians by sweeping both games. The Twins now have hit 21 homers in eight games with Cleveland.

Mincher, a forgotten man on the Twins bench, went to the plate with the bases full in the first inning of the second game batting only .083. He hit a Barry Latman pitch 415 feet into the Twins' bullpen.

Killebrew clouted his 20th homer, and third in as many games, with Rich Rollins aboard in the sixth.

Bill Pleis was the winner with relief help. Battey's three-run homer and solo shots by Versalles and Power got the Twins their first game victory.

Mets Drop 15th Straight Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Colts, sparked by John Bate-man's three-run triple, hustled in seven runs in the first inning and coasted to an 8-3 victory over New York's hapless Mets in their rain-shortened game Sunday.

The game was called because of rain just after Frank Thomas hit a two-run homer in the New York eighth, and the scheduled second game of the doubleheader was postponed.

The loss was the Mets' 15th in a row.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

YOU MIGHT CALL CUMBERLAND'S Bob Rowley a draft dodger in reverse, but don't get the idea that the former Fort Hill High School and University of Virginia football standout is in any sort of jam with Uncle Sam.

The reference is to the National Football League player draft, not military conscription.

Rowley, who was graduated from Virginia this year following a brilliant grid career with the Cavaliers, was passed over completely by the 14 NFL clubs in the draft, but is going to take a shot at making the pro game on his own.

Having joined the Pittsburgh organization as a free agent on a conditional basis, Bob will begin working out with the Steelers when they open camp at West Liberty (W. Va.) State College on Monday, July 22. He reports to Pittsburgh on the 19th for pre-training physical examinations and indoctrination.

THERE'S A GOOD CHANCE that Steeler coach Buddy Parker and his aides will like what they see of the solid 215-pounder, who was named to the second unit of the all-Atlantic Coast Conference squad last season and was rated by Virginia coach Bill Elias as an outstanding college lineman.

Rowley expects to be tested as a defensive linebacker by the Steelers, but he is also interested in trying out as a tight end on offense. In college, he was used primarily as a guard and also did most of the place-kicking for the Cavaliers.

A very unassuming young gentleman who hasn't let success go to his head, Rowley feels he wasn't drafted by any of the NFL teams simply because "they're not interested in 215-pound guards."

Although most of the approximately 100 rookies who will stick in the NFL this season will be draft choices, every year invariably produces exceptions, probably the most notable being the Baltimore Colts' all-Pro quarterback Johnny Unitas. By the same token, many of the early round draft selections fail to make the grade.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR BOB Rowley, with his quiet determination plus his more tangible gridiron assets, to be playing professional football somewhere in the coming season.

Thanks to pro football expansion and the American Football League, Bob has another avenue of hope if he doesn't fit into the Steelers' immediate plans.

The New York Jets (nee Titans), who are starting the 1963 season practically from scratch, are willing to take a look at any prospect who believes he can play for pay. Should Rowley fail to survive Pittsburgh's roster cutdown, he plans to contact the AFL club.

Being a realistic individual, Bob is aware of the possibility that he could, for a variety of reasons, fail to hook up with a pro club this year.

In this event, he plans to enter the armed forces to complete his military obligation, hoping to play service football and thereby gain additional experience for another crack at the professional ranks.

ROWLEY'S MAJOR AT THE University of Virginia was physical education with a minor in biology, and he would like eventually to teach and, of course, to coach football.

One of Rowley's most interesting experiences at the Charlottesville institution was playing rugby, a rugged sport that has its greatest following in Great Britain.

Several years ago, graduates of two Ivy League universities (where rugby is a big thing) who were attending the University of Virginia School of Law decided to form a rugby team in the spring for Cavalier football players and other interested students.

Bob played on the rugby team which lost only three of 18 games, and sums up the experience by declaring, "After you've played rugby, you're ready to try anything once."

If Rowley succeeds in his desire to play professional football, and this corner is rooting for him, we may have to credit the bloody British with a left-handed assist.

UFL Will Decide Ties In Overtime, Drops 2-Point Rule

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Officials of the United Football League attended a Sunday clinic to be oriented on two rules changes for the pro loop in the coming season.

Conducted by American Football League official Thurlow McCrady, the clinic emphasized the rule change abandoning the two-point conversion option after touchdowns. McCrady also stressed the league's new system for sudden death overtime in the games.

The clinic ended the two-day session, during which club owners ironed out the pre-game schedule and made travel arrangements.

Dodgers Extend Victory Skein To Seven Games

Johnny Podres Posts 8th Win Over Phils, 3-2

Rain Cuts First Game Of Twin Bill To Six Innings

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Willie Davis' run producing single in the fourth carried the high-flying Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-2 victory Sunday over the Philadelphia Phillies in the opening game of a doubleheader cut to six innings by rain.

The rain, which fell steadily throughout the game, also washed out the scheduled nightcap.

The victory was the seventh in a row for the National League leading Dodgers and their 12th in 13 games.

Davis' deciding single capped a two-run outburst which followed an error by Ruben Amaro on Ken McMullan's two-out grounder. The bobbie enabled Ron Fairly to tally from third and advanced John Roseboro, who had singled, to second. Davis then smashed a single through the right side of the infield, scoring Roseboro.

The Dodgers got their other run in the first inning on a lead-off triple by Maury Wills and Jim Gilliam's sacrifice fly.

Home runs accounted for the two Phillies tallies. John Callison walloped his 10th of the season in the first. Amaro pounded his second of the year in the fifth.

Johnny Podres, making his first 1963 start against the Phillies, went the route, gaining his eighth triumph against six defeats.

Pen-Mar Games Are Rained Out

West Winner, 8-2, In All-Star Tilt

Rain washed out the three games scheduled yesterday in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The Barreilleville at Cumberland Hermans game is rescheduled for Saturday, July 20, at 2:30 p.m. with "Moose" Arnone and George Charuhas as the umpires.

Other games scheduled for Saturday are Hyndman at Lonaconing (Al Martin and Eddie Eyer) and Frostburg at Mt. Savage (Bill Andrews and Joe Geatz).

The other games postponed yesterday are rescheduled for Saturday, July 27, at 3:30 p.m. They are Lonaconing at Mt. Savage (Al Martin and John Boyle) and Hyndman at Frostburg (Bill Andrews and Pete Wagley).

The West team, composed of players from Mt. Savage, Frostburg and Lonaconing, defeated the East by the score of 8-2 Saturday at Municipal Field in the league's annual All-Star game on "Johnny Loo, Day."

Ralph Peace, Grover Fazenbaker, Ralph Wilson and Ralph Dickel pitched for the West and Peace received credit for the victory. Wellington Donahue, took the loss. He was followed by John Sloan, John Keister, Dave Jones and Ernie Rockwell. The East team was composed of Cumberland, Hyndman and Barreilleville players.

Bobby Robertson, of Mt. Savage, led the West's 11-hit attack in right-center and a two-bagger. Ray Oaten, George Lauder and Peace of the West ripped two-baggers as did Johnny Price of the East.

Youth Is Killed In Rt. 40 Crash

Two Girls Hurt As Car Hits Pole

A 19-year-old local youth was killed and two teenage girls were seriously injured yesterday morning when the car in which they were riding crashed on U. S. Route 40 about 24 miles east of here.

Killed in the crash was James Eugene Young, of 214 Carroll Street, driver of the car. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital here.

JAMES E. YOUNG

Injured and admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment, observation and X-rays were:

Miss Patricia Trozzo, 18, 439 Cumberland Street. She was reported in fair condition last night, suffering from a hip injury and lacerations of the head.

Miss Judith Ann McFarland, 19, of 213 Carroll Street. She was reported in fairly good condition, suffering from a possible fracture of the left leg and multiple cuts and bruises.

Hits Utility Pole

State police said the accident occurred at 10:15 a. m. on Route 40 about 12 miles east of Flintstone as the car, traveling east, ran off the south shoulder of the road and hit a utility pole.

Mr. Young, a clerk at Grant's store in the LaVale Plaza shopping center, was driving the girls to Baltimore, where they are studying to be X-ray technicians at St. Agnes Hospital.

His death was attributed to a punctured heart and a fractured sternum.

Tic. Leonard F. Flynn investigated for State Police.

Mr. Young was born in Washington, D. C., September 14, 1943, and was a son of Harry E. and Regina McKenzie Young, 214 Carroll Street.

Surviving, besides his parents, are a brother, Harry E. Jr., at home; a sister, Miss Dolores A. Young, a student at Morgantown, W. Va., and his grandfather, Joseph A. McKenney, city.

Rites Planned

He was a member of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church and of the Third Order of St. Francis. A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 10 a. m. in St. Peter and Paul Church. Rev. Sylvan Fondriest, OFM Cap., assistant pastor, will be the celebrant of the Requiem Mass and interment will follow in Sunset Memorial Park.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Camp Period Will Open

Reservations are now being accepted for the third session of YMCA day camp, "Camp Echo," announced Benjamin Haines, secretary. The session is for children eight years of age and older and will run from July 22 to August 2. The Y will accept up to 60 applications for the camp session.

The fourth session which is for 6, 7 and 8 year-old boys and girls is now filled to capacity. Additional applicants for the session will be accepted for the third session, with youngsters of this age group separated from the older children during the two-week session.

Ronald Riggs and Pamela Davis are "Camp Echo" senior counselors and are assisted by Georgeanna Lehman, Linda Golden, James Levin, Edward Humbertson and James Valentine.

Swimming instruction, indoor and outdoor gymnasium games, craft projects and trips to New Germany and Shawnee parks highlight the day camp sessions, said Mr. Haines.

Frostburg To Get $57,500 Grant On Water Line Project

The Housing and Home Finance Agency has approved a $57,500 grant to the City of Frostburg, according to Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, (D-Md.).

The grant covering half of the cost of laying water lines to augment the city's water distribution system, was made under the Accelerated Public Works program.

The project is expected to provide 90 months of labor. Construction is scheduled to begin within 90 days.

Some Farmers Blame Seeding For Drought

Committee Formed In Three Districts

A committee of farmers living in three election districts in the eastern end of Allegany County has been formed to see what can be done to have the cloud-seeding practice of large orchardists in the area discontinued.

The committee was formed Friday night at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Buser, Oliver Beltz Road.

At that meeting, the group discussed the dry conditions that have prevailed in that section of the county. Nearly an inch of rain fell on the area yesterday. Before that time the last measurable rain occurred June 9 when two-and-fourth tenths inches fell.

In the course of the discussion of the dry conditions, the farmers agreed unanimously that the cloud-seeding operations being used by large fruit growers west and south of the three districts are interfering with cloud movements thereby keeping rain away from their area.

Some livestock farmers are feeding hay to their stock. Some others are selling stock or moving them to other areas where there has been rain. Vegetable farmers have lost their early crops. Alfalfa and red clover have been damaged to the point that there will be no more cuttings this year.

Fruit growers report that if rain does come soon much of their fruit will be too small for market.

Edgar M. Matthews appointed the nine-man committee with three members each being from District 2, Oldtown; District 3, Flintstone, and District 16, North Branch. From District 16 are James R. Twigg, Renice Pollock and Clara Pollock. From District 2 are Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Robert Apple and Roy Shryock. From District 3 are Frank Humbertson, Mr. Buser and Homer Blubaugh.

Mr. Buser is chairman and Mr. Twigg secretary of the committee. This committee will attempt to contact all residents of the three election districts within the next three months.

Committee plans call for discussion of the seeding of clouds for the prevention of hail and solicitation of support in a move to have this operation discontinued.

The committee would like to know the opinion of all residents of the county but considers the entire county too large an area to cover.

Persons interested in notifying committee members of their views may call any of the following numbers:

GR 8-4941; EX 5-5219; EX 5-5333; EX 5-5304; EX 5-5328; PA 4-7998; GR 8-4941, and PA 2-4912.

Somerville Is Appointed To State Legal Committee

William B. Somerville, a Baltimore attorney and former resident of Cumberland, has been named vice chairman of a special committee on racial problems, according to H. Vernon Eney, president of the State Bar Association.

The committee, approved by the Executive Council of the association, will cooperate with the recently appointed American Bar Association committee on civil rights and racial unrest and also with the lawyer's committee for civil rights under law formed at the request of President Kennedy following a White House conference June 21.

The principal function of the committee will be to assist in solving at the local or community level the problems creating racial tensions and unrest in the state. To this end, the committee will do everything possible to enlist the aid and support of all responsible citizens in every community to prevent violence and restore order where necessary.

The committee will also do everything possible to insure understanding by the public of the legal issues and judicial processes which are involved in these controversies and urge respect for such legal processes and for the judiciary and other public officials charged with their enforcement.

Mr. Somerville is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Somerville, 110 Washington Street.

Among those appointed to the committee are David W. Bryon, Hagerstown, and F. DeSales Mudd, LaPlata.

Greets New Instructor

Maj. Joseph E. Schoen, Jr., left, who has been instructor and inspector of the local USMC reserve unit for the past three years, is shown greeting Maj. James E. Day who will replace him this week. Maj. Schoen leaves Thursday for the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Major Day Appointed As New USMC Instructor

Maj. James E. Day, USMC, will replace Maj. Joseph E. Schoen, Jr., this week as instructor and inspector of the 43rd Rifle Company of the United States Marine Corps Reserve, McKaig's Hill.

Maj. Schoen, formerly of 701 Montgomery Avenue, and a native of New York City, will leave Thursday for the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va. He has been instructor and inspector of the local reserve unit since 1960. He is a veteran of the Korean war.

Maj. Day is a native of Barstow, Calif., and comes here from the Marine Corps School, Quantico, where he has recently completed a one-year course.

During his 20 years of service in the Marine Corps, Maj. Day has been decorated several times for combat activity. His decorations include two Silver Star medals received in Korea, a Bronze Star received in Okinawa, a Navy Letter of Commendation with combat "V", and four Purple Hearts.

He has served as the commanding officer of an infantry company, a battalion operations officer, a battalion intelligence officer and an instructor at the Marine Corps Schools.

Maj. and Mrs. Day and their four children are residing at 701 Montgomery Avenue.

VFW Will Fill Two Vacancies

Two changes in the officer personnel of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign War are necessitated, according to Vernon A. Crable, commander, because of resignations.

James H. Darling, who has been elected quartermaster-adjutant of the Department of Maryland VFW, has resigned his post position as quartermaster. His new duties with the state require him to move to Baltimore.

At a meeting on July 2, the office of post quartermaster was declared vacant and Verner J. Winner resigned his position as one-year trustee to accept nomination as quartermaster.

After the trusteeship was declared vacant, Guy C. Smith was nominated to succeed Mr. Winner to this position.

At the regular meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the post home, additional nominations will be accepted from the floor and the special election will be held.

Weather Delays Powder Puff Derby Planes

First Flights Expected Today

Powder Puff Derby planes, strung over several states yesterday as a result of unfavorable weather conditions, are expected to begin arriving at the Cumberland Municipal Airport this morning.

Cumberland is the last stop on the cross-country race before the pilots complete the 2,400 mile flight at Atlantic City.

Personnel at the Cumberland Municipal Airport were on the alert until late afternoon yesterday in case some of the pilots should decide to press on and finish the flight.

Members of the Mountain Amateur Radio Club also were on hand to provide communications for the contest.

Radio messages indicates the fast planes were scattered across the country, that several flights had been cancelled and that one plane had been forced down in the mid-West.

The club will continue to provide communications until all the planes land at Atlantic City.

On hand to time the planes as they arrive here is Margo Decker, of Arlington, Va., official timekeeper for the Cumberland stop.

When the planes leave here, pilots will face a 201.19 nautical mile flight to Atlantic City.

The winner of the derby will be determined on the basis of actual flying time between the stops, minus the handicap set according to the plane's rating. The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Downtown Cumberland Business Association are offering a $100 prize to the winner of the race between here and Atlantic City.

Local Men To Be Tried

Three local men were arrested over the weekend in connection with separate assault cases. Each of the men will be tried today in Trial Magistrates Court.

Lacey Simmons, 452 Bond Street, was arrested by state police Saturday night on charges of assaulting his son Eugene Simmons, 19, and a neighbor, Mrs. Betty Deneen, 211 Railroad Place, with a crowbar. He will be tried at 1:30 p.m.

Harry Deremer, of Independence Street, is charged with the assault of his wife, Mrs. Betty Deremer, and another woman, Miss Carol L. Smith. The incident is reported to have taken place Saturday at 200 Decatur Street. Deremer was also charged with disturbing the peace. Trial is set for 2 p.m.

Clarence Van Horn, 15 South Lee Street, will be tried at 2:30 p.m. on a charge of assaulting his 13-year-old step-daughter. He was arrested Saturday night by city police.

Former State Senator To Address Rotary

Mrs. Margaret Schweinhaut, former state senator from Montgomery County and presently chairman of the Maryland State Commission on Problems of the Aging, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Mrs. Schweinhaut will be introduced by Francis A. Kenney, who is chairman of Allegany County Commission on Problems of the Aging. J. Glenn Beall Jr., member of the House of Delegates and State Senator George R. Hughes Jr. will be guests.

Held For Questioning

A local woman and a Baltimore man are being held by city police, reportedly in connection with a planned burglary of a local service station. Detective Lt. Thomas See is conducting the investigation.

CHARLES S. CATHERMAN SR.

Local Business School Founder Dies In Hospital

Service Tuesday For C. S. Catherman Sr.

Charles Schock Catherman Sr., of 825 Windsor Road, founder of Catherman's Business School, died early Sunday morning at Sacred Heart Hospital of complications following a fall at his home May 23. He was 83.

Mr. Catherman was hospitalized for ten days following his fall in May and returned to the hospital for surgery on June 26. He has been at the hospital since that time.

Mr. Catherman purchased the Tri State Business College here in August 1917 and changed the name to Catherman's Business School. He remained active in its operation until his retirement in 1958, when active management was assumed by his son, Charles S. Catherman Jr.

A graduate of West Chester (Pa.) State Normal School, he was awarded a permanent certificate making him eligible to teach in Pennsylvania public schools for his lifetime. He taught in Chester County Schools for three years. He also was a graduate of Peirce School of Business, Philadelphia.

Prior to coming to Cumberland he was associated with Strayer Business College, Baltimore, for 16 years as superintendent of instruction and administrative head of the college.

Active in local business and civic affairs he was a honorary member and past president of Cumberland Rotary Club; member, past president and director of Cumberland Country Club, and a member of Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

He was born September 6, 1879 at Evendale (Juniata County) Pa., a son of Oliver Perry and Caroline (Schock) Catherman.

Surviving are his wife, Marie (Buckholder) Catherman; two children by his first wife, Lena (Bell) Catherman, who died in 1946, Charles S. Catherman Jr., and Mrs. Tom Martin Hadsell, Miraleste, Calif.; three grandchildren, Susan Elizabeth, Jill Barrett and Melanie Jane Hadsell, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body will be at the residence after 1 p. m. today. A service will be conducted there tomorrow at 2 p. m. by Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Active pallbearers will be Carroll Boggs, James D. Eisenberger, John E. Geare, Charles H. Hyde, Simon Rosenbaum II and Wilton H. Syckes.

Honorary pallbearers will be James W. Beacham, Alec Buchanan, Jacob H. Browne, Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, Roy W. Eves, Clarence H. Griggs, former Judge George Henderson, Charles L. Kopp, Earl E. Manges, Joseph I. Mattingly, Dr. J. E. McLean, former Judge William C. Walsh, Dr. H. B. Wood and A. M. Widener.

Gas Line Breaks

South End firemen were called to 34 Grand Avenue yesterday when a gas line became disconnected in the house. There was no damage, and the gas company was notified.

Bedford Road Sanitary Area Formed

Hazen Road Sector Is Eliminated From New District

A resolution creating a slightly modified Bedford Road Sanitary District to provide for sewage treatment has been adopted by the original three-man Allegany County Sanitary Commission.

The commission resolution as a legal notice is appearing for the first time in today's newspaper.

A hearing on the proposed sanitary district was held by the former three-man County Sanitary Commission on May 27. At that time some 70 persons, primarily residents in the Bedford Road area, crowded into the county commissioners' room at the Court House for the public hearing.

Drop One Area

After considerable discussion of this matter, the three members, Playford S. Aldridge, chairman; Robert A. Reinhard, secretary-treasurer, and Alvin H. Rankin, decided that one small portion of the proposed sanitary district which was not to get sewer service at this time, should be eliminated from the district.

Eliminated from the district was the easterly side of Bedford Road from the Mason-Dixon Line southward to Union Grove Road, the northerly side of Union Grove Road and all of Pine Ridge Road and Hazen Road which originally were a part of the district.

Remaining in the district are some 3.7 square miles along both sides of Bedford Road extending from the city limits nearly four miles to the Mason-Dixon Line. Portions of Knob Road and Pea Vine Run Road on the westerly side of Bedford Road, all of Naves Crossroad, all of Eastman Road, Baltimore Pike from the city limits to just north of Naves Crossroad, and parts of Mill Road and Union Grove Road are included in the district.

No Sewers Now

At the hearing May 27 it was explained that there is not now sufficient assessable base in the Hazen Road area to justify the installation of a sewer system there.

Most of the explanation at the May 27 hearing was provided by Leonard M. Glass of the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates which did the feasibility survey on the proposed sanitary district.

Total estimated cost to the property owners for the Bedford Road sewage system would be about $980,000. Some $311,200 in federal and state aid could assist in the financing.

The property owners themselves would have to pay all of the estimated $330,400 cost for collecting sewers for some 1700 residents in some 400 dwellings.

Interceptor sewers, pumping station and force main would cost an estimated $622,400, of which half would be paid for by federal and state sources. An additional $27,200 would be needed to pay the interest on the bonds during construction.

The system would be financed through front foot assessments, ad valorem taxes and sewer service charges. The sewage would be brought to Cumberland's primary sewage plant for treatment.

Although there now are seven members on the County Sanitary Commission, the four new members did not participate in this decision because the hearing was held before they became members of the commission.

Establishment of the Bedford Road sewer system would eliminate a sewage problem which Thomas W. Shives, an engineer for the State Health Department, termed one of the worst sewage conditions in Maryland.

Any 10 residents and landowners dissatisfied with the commission's order have the right to appeal within 10 days to the county commissioners who would be required to hold a similar hearing.

Sunshine Campers Do Indian Dance

These Sunshine Camp girls and their councilors are shown performing an Indian dance which they did as part of the entertainment when members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club visited the camp at the end of MacDonald Terrace last Thursday. The 25 deserving girls ended their two weeks at the Kiwanis-sponsored camp Saturday. Some 25 boys, selected by Associated Charities, will be taken to the camp today for their two-weeks' camping experience. Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Koegel direct this 24th annual Sunshine Camp. Kiwanians will visit the camp again July 25, two days before the season ends.

Youth Is Killed In Rt. 40 Crash

Two Girls Hurt As Car Hits Pole

A 19-year-old local youth was killed and two teenage girls were seriously injured yesterday morning when the car in which they were riding crashed on U. S. Route 40 about 24 miles east of here.

Killed in the crash was James Eugene Young, of

JAMES E. YOUNG

214 Carroll Street, driver of the car. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital here.

Injured and admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment, observation and X-rays were:

Miss Patricia Trozzo, 18, 439 Cumberland Street. She was reported in fair condition last night, suffering from a hip injury and lacerations of the head.

Miss Judith Ann McFarland, 19, of 213 Carroll Street. She was reported in fairly good condition, suffering from a possible fracture of the left leg and multiple cuts and bruises.

Hits Utility Pole

State police said the accident occurred at 10:15 a. m. on Route 40 about 12 miles east of Flintstone as the car, traveling east, ran off the south shoulder of the road and hit a utility pole.

Mr. Young, a clerk at Grant's store in the LaVale Plaza shopping center, was driving the girls to Baltimore, where they are studying to be X-ray technicians at St. Agnes Hospital.

His death was attributed to a punctured heart and a fractured sternum.

Tfc. Leonard F. Flynn investigated for State Police.

Mr. Young was born in Washington, D. C., September 14, 1943, and was a son of Harry E. and Regina McKenzie Young, 214 Carroll Street.

Surviving, besides his parents, are a brother, Harry E. Jr., at home; a sister, Miss Dolores A. Young, a student at Morgantown, W. Va., and his grandfather, Joseph A. McKenzie, city.

Rites Planned

He was a member of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church and of the Third Order of St. Francis. A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 10 a. m. in St. Peter and Paul Church, Rev. Sylvan Fondriest, OFM Cap., assistant pastor, will be the celebrant of the Requiem Mass and interment will follow in Sunset Memorial Park.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Camp Period Will Open

Reservations are now being accepted for the third session of YMCA day camp, "Camp Echo," announced Benjamin Haines, secretary. The session is for children eight years of age and older and will run from July 22 to August 2. The Y will accept up to 60 applications for the camp session.

The fourth session which is for 6, 7 and 8 year-old boys and girls is now filled to capacity. Additional applicants for the session will be accepted for the third session, with youngsters of this age group separated from the older children during the two-week session.

Ronald Riggs and Pamela Davis are "Camp Echo" senior counselors and are assisted by Goldanna Lehman, Linda Golden, James Levin, Edward Humbert, and Clara Pollock. From District 2 are Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Robert Apple and Roy Shryock. From District 3 are Frank Humbertson, Mr. Buser and Homer Blubaugh.

Mr. Buser is chairman and Mr. Twiggs secretary of the committee. This committee will attempt to contact all residents of the three election districts within the next three months.

Committee plans call for discussion of the seeding of clouds for the prevention of hail and solicitation of support in a move to have this operation discontinued.

The committee would like to know the opinion of all residents of the county but considers the entire county too large an area to cover.

Persons interested in notifying committee members of their views may call any of the following numbers:

GR 8-4941; EX 5-3219; EX 5-5333; EX 5-5304; EX 5-3328; PA 4-7998; GR 8-4941, and PA 2-4912.

Some Farmers Blame Seeding For Drought

Committee Formed In Three Districts

A committee of farmers living in three election districts in the eastern end of Allegany County has been formed to see what can be done to have the cloud-seeding practice of large orchardists in the area discontinued.

The committee was formed Friday night at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Buser, Oliver Beltz Road.

At that meeting, the group discussed the dry conditions that have prevailed in that section of the county. Nearly an inch of rain fell on the area yesterday. Before that time the last measurable rain occurred June 9 when two-and-fourth tenths inches fell.

In the course of the discussion of the dry conditions, the farmers agreed unanimously that the cloud-seeding operations being used by large fruit growers west and south of the three districts are interfering with cloud movements thereby keeping rain away from their area.

Some livestock farmers are feeding hay to their stock. Some others are selling stock or moving them to other areas where there has been rain. Vegetable farmers have lost their early crops. Alfalfa and red clover have been damaged to the point that there will be no more cuttings this year.

Fruit growers report that if rain does come soon much of their fruit will be too small for market.

Edgar M. Matthews appointed the nine-man committee with three members each being from District 2, Oldtown; District 3, Flintstone, and District 16, North Branch. From District 16 are James R. Twigg, Renice Pollock and Clara Pollock. From District 2 are Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Robert Apple and Roy Shryock. From District 3 are Frank Humbertson, Mr. Buser and Homer Blubaugh.

Mr. Buser is chairman and Mr. Twiggs secretary of the committee. This committee will attempt to contact all residents of the three election districts within the next three months.

Somerville Is Appointed To State Legal Committee

William B. Somerville, a Baltimore attorney and former resident of Cumberland, has been named vice chairman of a special committee on racial problems, according to H. Vernon Ence, president of the State Bar Association.

The committee, approved by the Executive Council of the association, will cooperate with the recently appointed American Bar Association committee on civil rights and racial unrest and also with the lawyer's committee for civil rights under law formed at the request of President Kennedy following a White House conference June 21.

The principal function of the committee will be to assist in solving at the local or community level the problems creating racial tensions and unrest in the state. To this end, the committee will do everything possible to enlist the aid and support of all responsible citizens in every community to prevent violence and restore order where necessary.

The committee will also do everything possible to insure understanding by the public of the legal issues and judicial processes which are involved in these controversies and urge respect for such legal processes and for the judiciary and other public officials charged with their enforcement.

Mr. Somerville is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Somerville, 110 Washington Street.

Among those appointed to the committee are David W. Bryon, Hagerstown, and F. DeSales Mudd, LaPlata.

Greets New Instructor

Maj. Joseph E. Schoen, Jr., left, who has been instructor and inspector of the local USMC reserve unit for the past three years, is shown greeting Maj. James E. Day who will replace him this week. Maj. Schoen leaves Thursday for the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Major Day Appointed As New USMC Instructor

Maj. James E. Day, USMC, will replace Maj. Joseph E. Schoen, Jr., this week as instructor and inspector of the 43rd Rifle Company of the United States Marine Corps Reserve, McKaig's Hill.

Maj. Schoen, formerly of 701 Montgomery Avenue, and a native of New York City, will leave Thursday for the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va. He has been instructor and inspector of the local reserve unit since 1960. He is a veteran of the Korean war.

Maj. Day is a native of Barstow, Calif., and comes here from the Marine Corps School, Quantico, where he has recently completed a one-year course.

During his 20 years of service in the Marine Corps, Maj. Day has been decorated several times for combat activity. His decorations include two Silver Star medals received in Korea, a Bronze Star received in Okinawa, a Navy Letter of Commendation with combat "V", and four Purple Hearts.

He has served as the commanding officer of an infantry company, a battalion operations officer, a battalion intelligence officer and an instructor at the Marine Corps Schools.

Maj. and Mrs. Day and their four children are residing at 701 Montgomery Avenue.

VFW Will Fill Two Vacancies

Two changes in the officer personnel of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign War are necessitated, according to Vernon A. Crable, commander, because of resignations.

James H. Darling, who has been elected quartermaster, adjutant of the Department of Maryland VFW, has resigned his post position as quartermaster. His new duties with the state require him to move to Baltimore.

At a meeting on July 2, the office of post quartermaster was declared vacant and Verner J. Winner resigned his position as one-year trustee to accept nomination as quartermaster.

After the trusteeship was declared vacant, Guy C. Smith was nominated to succeed Mr. Winner to this position.

At the regular meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the post home, additional nominations will be accepted from the floor and the special election will be held.

Local Business School Founder Dies In Hospital

Service Tuesday For C. S. Catherman Sr.

Charles Schock Catherman Sr., of 825 Windsor Road, founder of Catherman's Business School, died early Sunday morning at Sacred Heart Hospital of complications following a fall at his home May 23. He was 83.

Mr. Catherman was hospitalized for ten days following his fall in May and returned to the hospital for surgery on June 26. He has been at the hospital since that time.

Mr. Catherman purchased the Tri State Business College here in August 1917 and changed the name to Catherman's Business School. He remained active in its operation until his retirement in 1958, when active management was assumed by his son, Charles S. Catherman Jr.

A graduate of West Chester (Pa.) State Normal School, he was awarded a permanent certificate making him eligible to teach in Pennsylvania public schools for his lifetime. He taught in Chester County Schools for three years. He also was a graduate of Peirce School of Business, Philadelphia.

Prior to coming to Cumberland he was associated with Strayer Business College, Baltimore, for 16 years as superintendent of instruction and administrative head of the college.

Active in local business and civic affairs he was a honorary member and past president of Cumberland Rotary Club; member, past president and director of Cumberland Country Club, and a member of Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

He was born September 6, 1879 at Evendale (Juniata County) Pa., a son of Oliver Perry and Caroline (Schock) Catherman.

Surviving are his wife, Marie (Buckholder) Catherman; two children by his first wife, Lena (Bell) Catherman, who died in 1946, Charles S. Catherman Jr., and Mrs. Tom Martin Hadsell, Miraleste, Calif.; three grandchildren, Susan Elizabeth, Jill Barrett and Melanie Jane Hadsell, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body will be at the residence after 1 p. m. today. A service will be conducted there tomorrow at 2 p. m. by Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Active pallbearers will be Carroll Boggs, James D. Eisenberger, John E. Geare, Charles H. Hyde, Simon Rosenbaum II and Wilton H. Syckes.

Honorary pallbearers will be James W. Beacham, Alec Buchanan, Jacob H. Browne, Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, Roy W. Eves, Clarence H. Griggs, former Judge George Henderson, Charles L. Kopp, Earl E. Manges, Joseph I. Mattingly, Dr. J. E. McLean, former Judge William C. Walsh, Dr. H. B. Wood and A. M. Widener.

Gas Line Breaks

South End firemen were called to 34 Grand Avenue yesterday when a gas line became disconnected in the house. There was no damage, and the gas company was notified.

Bedford Road Sanitary Area Formed

Hazen Road Sector Is Eliminated From New District

A resolution creating a slightly modified Bedford Road Sanitary District to provide for sewage treatment has been adopted by the original three-man Allegany County Sanitary Commission.

The commission resolution as a legal notice is appearing for the first time in today's newspaper.

A hearing on the proposed sanitary district was held by the former three-man County Sanitary Commission on May 27. At that time some 70 persons, primarily residents in the Bedford Road area, crowded into the county commissioners' room at the Court House for the public hearing.

Drop One Area

After considerable discussion of this matter, the three members, Playford S. Aldridge, chairman; Robert A. Reinhard, secretary-treasurer, and Alvin H. Rankin, decided that one small portion of the proposed sanitary district which was not to get sewer service at this time, should be eliminated from the district.

Eliminated from the district was the easterly side of Bedford Road from the Mason-Dixon Line southward to Union Grove Road, the northerly side of Union Grove Road and all of Pine Ridge Road and Hazen Road which originally were a part of the district.

Remaining in the district are some 3.7 square miles along both sides of Bedford Road extending from the city limits nearly four miles to the Mason-Dixon Line. Portions of Knob Road and Pea Vine Run Road on the westerly side of Bedford Road, all of Naves Crossroad, all of Eastman Road, Baltimore Pike from the city limits to just north of Naves Crossroad, and parts of Mill Road and Union Grove Road are included in the district.

No Sewers Now

At the hearing May 27 it was explained that there is not now sufficient assessable base in the Hazen Road area to justify the installation of a sewer system there.

Most of the explanation at the May 27 hearing was provided by Leonard M. Glass of the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates which did the feasibility survey on the proposed sanitary district.

Total estimated cost to the property owners for the Bedford Road sewage system would be about $980,000. Some $311,200 in federal and state aid could assist in the financing.

The property owners themselves would have to pay all of the estimated $330,400 cost for collecting sewers for some 1700 residents in some 400 dwellings.

Interceptor sewers, pumping station and force main would cost an estimated $62,400, of which half would be paid for by federal and state sources. An additional $27,200 would be needed to pay the interest on the bonds during construction.

The system would be financed through front foot assessments, ad valorem taxes and sewer service charges. The sewage would be brought to Cumberland's primary sewage plant for treatment.

Although there now are seven members on the County Sanitary Commission, the four new members did not participate in this decision because the hearing was held before they became members of the commission.

Establishment of the Bedford Road sewer system would eliminate a sewage problem which Thomas W. Shives, an engineer for the State Health Department, termed one of the worst sewage conditions in Maryland.

Any 10 residents and landowners dissatisfied with the commission's order have the right to appeal within 10 days to the county commissioners who would be required to hold a similar hearing.
